BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Michigan City, Ind., Oct. 13.—(Special.)—Thomas H. Adams, Vincennes attorney, today presented his story of the super-government and corruption in Indiana to the Marion county grand jury, which is investigating his charges. Adams was in the jury room for more than two hours. What transpired there, of course, is secret, but it is known that he presented a long and detailed account of his alleged involvement in the Stephenson case.

SECOND DAY'S REGISTRATION PROVES LIGHT

Decided apathy on the part of Chicago citizens was manifested yesterday by a falling off of 188,386 in the city's total registration. Only 481,679 citizens placed their names on the poll books during the day, the last day of registration before the election of Tuesday, Nov. 2.

Those persons, with the 414,830 who registered on Oct. 2 of this year, gave a total of 876,509 registered voters. A slight reduction may be made in this figure by revision. As it stands, the figure compares with a total revised registration of 1,064,895 made in 1924. The total this year is only 71,961 greater than the revised registration for the last off year election of 1922, when 804,648 names were on the poll books.

Residence Wards Suffer Most.

Residence wards suffered the greatest losses in the registration figures. The 49th ward (the Rogers Park) showed a 9,200 decrease in the number of its eligible voters. The other north side residence wards were not far behind in their losses. The 43rd fell off 6,000, the 43d 4,500, the 44th 5,600, the 45th 2,800, the 46th 5,500, the 47th 6,000, the 48th 7,000, and the 50th 5,000.

The Hyde Park residence wards were not far behind those of the north side in losses of eligible voters. The Fifth lost 8,000, the Sixth 7,600, and the Seventh 5,100, in spite of the constant increase in its population.

Organizations Show Strength.

Standing out in contrast to the residence wards and those in the black belt were the organization strongholds on the west and southwest sides. There the losses were cut to a minimum. One ward, in fact, showed an increase. It was the Twentieth, the stronghold of Morris Miller, who is a candidate to succeed himself as sanitary district trustee. The registration there showed a gain of 1,900. Miller's Democratic colleague on the drainage board, Michael Rosenberg, almost equaled his record, holding the loss in his ward, the Twenty-fourth, to 500.

County Treasurer P. J. Carr was able to bring the registration in the 12th to 800 of what it had been in the Presidential Year and swell the registration in the 12th ward, into which his influence extends, by 2,500.

Tables of Registration.

The following table shows yesterday's registration, the combined registration for yesterday and Oct. 2, and the former registration by wards:

GETTING SICK OF THE VOYAGE

PRISONERS RIOT IN COUNTY JAIL; FOUR ARE HURT

A riot among white and colored prisoners on the sixth floor of the county jail last evening resulted in the injury of four of them before the fight was stopped by Warden E. J. Fogarty and four of his guards. Six of the Negroes, who are held responsible for the trouble, were placed in solitary confinement and the remainder of the 55 inmates of the tier were ordered locked in their cells and deprived of their privileges of exercising and having visitors.

The trouble started when one of the prisoners is alleged to have short changed Ray Freeman, Negro, charged with burglary. Freeman gave a runner a $5 bill to guard for him yesterday morning and in the afternoon was given back only $1. When his demand for the second dollar was refused verbal arguments ensued and culminated in the free for all.

Francis Gamboni, Leo Balget, Louis Smida and Charles Jankota are the prisoners hurt by the Negroes, who used blackjacks made from bed springs and knives shaped from spoons.

ROB BANK, TRIED, CONVICTED, GO TO PRISON IN WEEK

Just a week ago Leo Draves and Carlos Justison robbed the Commercial Exchange bank of Kenosha, Wis., of $11,538. Yesterday they were tried at the Circuit court at Kenosha, found guilty, and sentenced to from five to fifteen years in prison. Today they will start to the state penitentiary at Joliet.

British Embassy at Tokio Set on Fire by Incendiaries

TOKIO, Oct. 13.—An attempt was made by incendiaries to burn the British embassy early this morning. The fire was discovered before it had made much headway and was quickly extinguished. The embassy and Tokio police are maintaining strict secrecy as to the facts of the fire.

Queen on Way to U. S.; Heals Family Feud

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Aboard the Leviathan, Oct. 12.—(By Wireless.)—Without regard for the pouring rain which soaked her Romanian stand, Queen Marie of Roumania stood on the top deck of the tender tonight as it carried her to the Leviathan. The big American ship faced stormy seas as it started on its voyage. The queen was so tired after the strenuous day of farewells that she dined informally and went to bed early. Prince Nicholas and a companion joined the crowd in the main lounge.

Cherbourg, France, Oct. 12.—(By Wireless.)—Queen Marie of Roumania sailed away for America tonight aboard the Leviathan, the flag of her country flying from the port truck of the largest of liners as it passed through rain out into the Atlantic.

Both in Paris this morning and in Cherbourg tonight the queen was bidden farewell by representatives of Roumania, France and the United States. The official expressions of "bon voyage" were augmented by spontaneous good wishes from the crowds gathered to get a glimpse of the golden haired, gracious mother-in-law of the Balkans.

Before leaving Paris a family reconciliation was effected with her son, Crown Prince Carol, who dined at the queen's table last night and then went to the station today to see his mother off on her voyage to the new world.

On the six hour train ride down to Cherbourg from Paris Marie remained in her private car, where she was visited by Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, who lunched with her. The two again sat side by side in Cherbourg when an early dinner was held in honor of the queen by the port and city authorities.

When the train carrying the queen and her party arrived at Cherbourg it entered the maritime train shed, which was decorated with the colors and emblems of France, America, and Roumania. Numerous bouquets were added to the vast collection of flowers which have already been presented to her.

Rear Admiral Roger Welles, commander of the American fleet in the harbor, was introduced to the queen, along with the American consul, Samuel H. Wiley, and then came another bouquet and letter sent by Lady Astor.

who had arrived home from America only a few hours before.

Crowd Braves Rain.

A delegation from "the women friends of peace" presented her majesty with a book entitled, "To Suppress That Crime Called War."

Assembled back of the official delegation was a great crowd of Cherbourgians who braved the steady drizzle to get a view of the queen.

Among the assemblage swarmed several hundred passengers, also bound for America on the Leviathan. It was a crowd of unusual proportions for this time of the year, the announcement that Queen Marie had decided to voyage on the flagship of the American merchant marine having induced a large number of travelers to make a similar selection for their autumn homing.

U. S. Warships Hailed.

The reception and dinner finished, Queen Marie, Prince Nicholas, and Prince Nicholas and party were escorted aboard the special tender Welles, which immediately steamed out to the Leviathan lying in the entrance to the harbor. It was then about 1 o'clock and every light near the water front was ablaze. The American destroyer Scylla was drawn up in regular formation, the flagship Memphis being brilliantly illuminated; her lights glimmered magnificently through the pouring rain as the tender passed her on the way to the waiting liner.

At the gangway of the Leviathan, Commodore Harbly and all the officers of his family, could be marked.

EXTRA!

Fire Destroys Big West Side Grain Plant

In one of the most spectacular fires Chicago firemen have had to fight for months, the plant of the Puritan Mills, Inc., at 353 North Elizabeth street was destroyed shortly after 6 o'clock this morning and only by desperate work was the plant, 1300-31 West Carroll avenue saved from the flames. One fireman was hurt so severely that his recovery is doubtful.

The Puritan plant occupied an area 100 feet square and was two stories in height. The company manufactures the Super Quality feed and the place was filled with dry grains of various kinds that enter into the composition of the company's products. They burned like kindling.

Find Place in Flames.

When the first firemen arrived, the entire place was a mass of flames. A 4-11 alarm was immediately sounded and it was followed by special calls until all the fire apparatus within a radius of miles was on the scene.

At times the flames leaped 200 feet into the air. The Eckhart plant adjoins the burned structure on the south. Its north wall is six stories high, without a window. Fire officials said this fact alone saved it.

his family name of Capone, was unconcerned. He received visitors in his shirt sleeves while a coroner's jury was seeking the cause of death of Weiss and also the cause of the death of Murray.

Weiss Wealth Reported $1,000,000.

Weiss had accumulated a fortune reliably reported to be $1,000,000.

Al Brown has as much or more, he boasts.

Both made their fortunes outside the law, and while the law was taking its slow and bumpy course yesterday, Al
Brown was taking his ease.

Every policeman in Chicago who could be interviewed was certain Brown had brought about the murder of Weiss. But no policeman molested him. Chief Collins explained—Brown has been in before on other murder charges and it is a waste of time to arrest him until something can be proved against him.

The chief declared that in his option the killers were imported. They were expert machine gunners, he said, and he believes Brown played safety first, getting outsiders to do his misdeeds and then hurrying them out of the city.

Scarface Says He's Sorry.

So Al Brown, alias Scarface Capone, granted an interview to the press representatives who called upon him as they do upon other notables of the news.

"I'm sorry Weiss was killed," Brown declared. "But I didn't have anything to do with it. I telephoned the detective bureau I'd come in if they wanted me and they told me they didn't want me. I knew I'd be blamed for it, but why should I kill Weiss?"

"He was supposed to be your rival for control of all the gangs of Cook county," a reporter reminded Brown.
But the gang chieftain, who has fifteen bodyguards around him all the time, wasn't interested.

The fight for gang control, however, was the story every policeman and every hoodlum and every racketeer was telling yesterday, and Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker stood sponsor for its truth.

The Story of Weiss.

Weiss had been a minor hoodlum before prohibition was spread upon the law books. He and Dean O'Banion had blown a safe or two and were ready for the hazards of the bootlegging and beer running business. That's when the gang began forming.

O'Banion quickly organized a gang for himself, and Weiss and Vincent Drucel, "The Schemer," were his closest advisers and next in command.
Al Brown was a somewhat important
the same time O'Banion, Weiss and Drucel were gaining notoriety.

Their gangs never fused, although most of the smaller gangs did so.
O'Banion was killed and Weiss and Drucel carried on. Torrio was chased out of the country by Weiss and Drucel, and Al Brown carried on.

Bullets Blast European Trip.

They were making fortunes for themselves and work for the coroner.
It was learned yesterday that Weiss was about to quit and start enjoying his fortune. He was soliciting company for a trip to Europe. But there was the fear of being called yellow.
Weiss had built up a reputation for himself as a gun fighter and to a man of his caliber anything was preferable to being considered a coward.

That was what, Chief Schoemaker was told yesterday. Drucel, who also has amassed a fortune of more than a million dollars, was one of those said to have advised Weiss to quit being a hoodlum and start being an artistocrat somewhere in Europe until the murder feud had cooled sufficiently here to permit them to return to Chicago.

Now, it was said, Drucel has decided to take his own advice. He checked

Collins Sees Small Hope of Catching the Murderers

Worn out after a day of activity,
Chief of Police Collins admitted last night that there is little hope for quick capture of the men who killed Earl Weiss and Patrick Murray.

"Even if we get them, they will be hard to identify," he declared. "I am convinced that they are imported rummish, lived to do the shooting, while the gang bosses, as usual, stayed in the background."

Contrary to reports, the police are not concentrating their efforts on getting Al Brown for questioning, the chief said.

Will Act with Caution.

"Brown, of course, has an alibi," he asserted. "He was in Cicero when the shooting occurred. If we bring him in it will be because we have the goods on him cold, but there is no putting him on the grill until we do."

The chief called a meeting of his police captains yesterday afternoon and instructed them to make careful checks of their districts in an attempt to run down the murderers.

"But the time to get these fellows out of his hotel suite and had vanished when police sought him, leaving the remains of the old O'Banion gang to shift for themselves; to make peace with the Al Brown faction or to continue waging the warfare.

See Weiss-Salts Link.

That was the explanation that satisfied all the authorities: Weiss was actively with Weiss and witnesses in Salt Lake and Attorney O'Brien had gone to meet him at Schofield's store—where two years ago O'Banion was slain—and they stepped together into an ambush laid by agents of Al Brown.

There was no progress made toward learning the identity of the actual murderers. The police didn't expect that information to come so quickly. Attorney O'Brien, whose condition was reported very favorable at midnight, would give them no help.
Benny Jacobs, an investigator for O'Brien, who also was shot in the other man shot, gave the police no assistance. None of those three is in danger of dying, surgeons said yesterday, so the law's endeavors were with other witnesses.

BROTHER TALKS AT INQUEST

At the coroner's inquest, held in the East Chicago avenue police station, the only relative of Weiss present was his brother, Fred J. Weiss, 1623 Belmont avenue, who told the jury this typical slant on the dead gunman's life:

"I saw him only once in twenty years," the brother testified. "That was when he shot me three years ago."

Deputy Coroner Charles F. Kennedy, who has conducted all the important inquests in connection with the gang wars, selected these jurors to lead the inquiry into the Weiss-Murray deaths:

LEONARD J. ROBY, vice president and general manager of the J. H. Channon corporation, 223 West Erie street, foreman.

FRED YAGER, surveyor, 541 North
Wells street.

CARL MEISTER, meat cutter, 740
North Clark street.

JOHN BERTINE, buyer, 870 North
Wells street.

HARRY PARCHEMAN, buyer, 1343
Madison street.

Jurors View Two Bodies.

After the jurors had been taken to is in the act," he asserted. "And sooner or later they're going to run head-on into the police. If a squad car had met this gang of killers Monday every one of them would be dead

now. My orders are shoot to kill."

North Side Gang Leads.

Chief Collins said he believes the heads of the north side gang were chopped off "in Monday's affray. If the next killings, either by the police or other gunmen, serve the west side the same way, he said, "the worst of the reigning gang leaders will be wiped out."

The chief scoffed at the reports that Earl Weiss, in a secret conference about a week ago, demanded that two of Al Brown's crowd be "taken for a ride" for the killing of Dean O'Banion, as one of the terms in a peace pact.

"If Weiss wanted anybody taken for a ride it was Al Brown himself," Chief Collins added. "There is no going to be any peace between the gangs. As long as there's big money in the machine gun business, there will be war over the control of it."

Stops Urges Investigation.

Capt. Stage said McKibben's story was worthy of investigation. He cited
the fact that Weiss' body contained lead pellets as well as the bullet that struck him in the chest.

Other witnesses have disputed McKib-ben's story, and most officials were inclined to treat it lightly.

Deputy Coroner Kennedy announced
the inquest would be resumed today,
and testimony taken until all available

Brennan Sure of One Vote;

96 Year Old Man Registers

his home at 6338 Vernon avenue yesterday, went to the polling place of the Second precinct of the Sixth ward, and registered. "I want to be ready to cast a vote for George Brennan,"
he declared. Mariga came to Chicago in 1897 from Iowa. He was once a candidate for alderman and lost, he claims, because the impression got out that he was an Italian. He is of Irish decent.

Crandon avenue, testified that he had arrived on the scene of the killings while returning with his company from a suicide call and that he resisted in taking Weiss' body to the hospital. A 45 caliber automatic was found in Weiss' belt, Diana said.

Then Capt. Murphy revealed that $5,598 in currency had been found in Weiss' pockets by Dr. Joseph Springer, chief coroner's physician.

Witness Gives New Clue.

A strange tale was told the jury
by the next witness, C. E. McKibben, 730 North State street, who testified that Sam Peller and Ben Jacobs, two companions of Weiss, Murray, and Attorney O'Brien just before the shooting, had fired revolvers' point-blank at Weiss.

McKibben said he had been on his way home when he saw the men dart across State street. Two of them, whom he later identified as the assailants as Peller and Jacobs, were firing from their revolvers at Weiss, who dropped after returning the fire, the witness said.

A fourth man, whose description fitted that of Attorney O'Brien, Capt.
Stage said, ran over to Weiss' body and took something from it, McKibben testified.

Stage Urges Investigation.

Capt. Stage said McKibben's story
was worthy of investigation. He cited
the fact that Weiss' body contained lead pellets as well as the bullet that
struck him in the chest.

Other witnesses have disputed McKib-
ben's story, and most officials were inclined to treat it lightly.

Deputy Coroner Kennedy announced
the inquest would be resumed today,
and testimony taken until all available
witnesses had been heard.

San Francisco

ARMS 1,000 TO

STOP THUGFEST

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 12.—(UP)—
More than 1,000 detectives, policemen and deputized citizens and several score speedy automobiles carrying shotgun and machine gun squads were posted at strategic points throughout this city tonight in readiness for the reappearance of two bandits who within a few hours last night shot and killed three men and shot and slugged five others.

In addition a thorough search still was in progress of hotels and rooming houses, so-called "soft drink" establishments, and the known haunts of criminals and drug addicts.

Federal narcotic agents were interested in the narcotic phase, as the belief was expressed that the men may have been under the influence of a habit forming drug when they went on their orgy of killing.

Another federal agency, the prohibition department, joined the hunt.
Operatives said they were searching for four men, two of them known to the department, who recently came here from Kansas City, and who have been engaged extensively in hijack-ing.

They expressed the belief that when the four men arrived here, the party

"split," two remaining here and two going to another city. It was recalled that the bandits last night asked one of their victims if his establishment was a "hooting parlor," and that one of the men appeared to be under the influence of liquor.

PASTOR ASSAILS
DRY ACT; PREXY
DEFENDS CO-EDS

Dr. Walter H. Macpherson, pastor of the Joliet Universalist church, and trustee of Lombard college, Galesburg, Ill., condemned the dry law last night as one of the many regulations which have sprung up since the way to wipe out individual thought and action.

Dr. Macpherson was toastmaster at a dinner of trustees and alumni of Lombard college and members of the Universalist churches in Chicago and Elgin, who met to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the institution and to inaugurate a drive for a $150,000 educational

COOLIDGE TOUCH TO FLASH NEW STATE ST. LIGHTS

Parade Tomorrow Night Starts Festival.

Flashing through the loop, State street at eight o'clock tomorrow night will become the brightest thoroughfare in America when President Coolidge turns on its new $100,000 lighting system.

By means of a special unit circuit, the lights will be turned on by the Illinois Bell Telephone company, the President will press the control switch at 8 p. m. The lighting of the lamps will be a signal for the official opening of the three day "Illumination Festival."

By three evenings, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, the street will be full of color and gaiety in celebration of the event, arranged by business men to draw attention to its significance as a great retail shopping center.

The Birth of State Street.

Special tribute will be paid during the celebration to the pioneer merchants whose efforts are responsible for the street's development, especially to Peter Palmer, who, virtually single-handed, caused the widening of the street and gave it its first great name in the late '60s.

By three evenings, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, the street will be full of color and gaiety in celebration of the event, arranged by business men to draw attention to its significance as a great retail shopping center.

Palmer as City Planner.

Previously Palmer had owned a prosperous store on Lake street where he had sold to Field, Leiter & Co. His new purchased three-quarters of a city block on State street, extending from 222 to 224 street.

He promptly moved all the buildings back twenty feet, graded and paved the widened strip at his own expense.

Then came a long battle to widen all of the street, an improvement that brought results of which even Palmer probably did not dream. It was the first and probably the most important step in widening the street in the history of Chicago.

Had it been duplicated on other streets before or during the advent of motor cars and skyscrapers it would have saved the city untold millions.

With the widening of State street finished, the evolution of the new business district was rapid. Field & Leiter left their Lake street location and leased one of Palmer's new buildings at State and Washington streets.

At the corner, the next largest dry goods merchants, moved into the next block. Others followed and by 1870 the prominence of Lake street was diminished.

State street had all the retail business.

In 1873 the great fire razed every building on the street. Mr. Palmer lost thirty-five buildings, valued at $4,000,000 and yielding him an annual rental of $200,000. Borrowing $1,700,000 he immediately started rebuilding.

His spirit was emulated by others. New structures arose. State street retained its position, and from that date its leadership never has been challenged by another thoroughfare.

Plan Military Parade.

The pageant starting the new lighting will start at 8:15, as soon as the theater crowds are cleared, and will proceed slowly north from Van Buren street to the center of the loop, where the floats will be on view.

At the center of the parade will be the floats, the parade will include the 11th and 12th infantry regiments, several platoons of sailors from Great Lakes training station and half a dozen bands.

Various other entertainment features will be staged Friday and Saturday nights, among them concerts by Paul Ash, jazz king, and his orchestra.

Several pavilions will be provided for the dancing. Practically all of the larger stores will be open for display and to care for the overflow, but no goods will be sold.

The festival will end with the awarding of $400 in prizes to the winners of a contest to choose the best title for the street after its illumination, such as "The Path of Gold," "The Milky Way," or "Chicago's Silver Street." The contest has been announced to be connected with State street business houses. It is being sponsored by the State Street Lighting association.

Wild Mushrooms Poison Four in South Chicago.

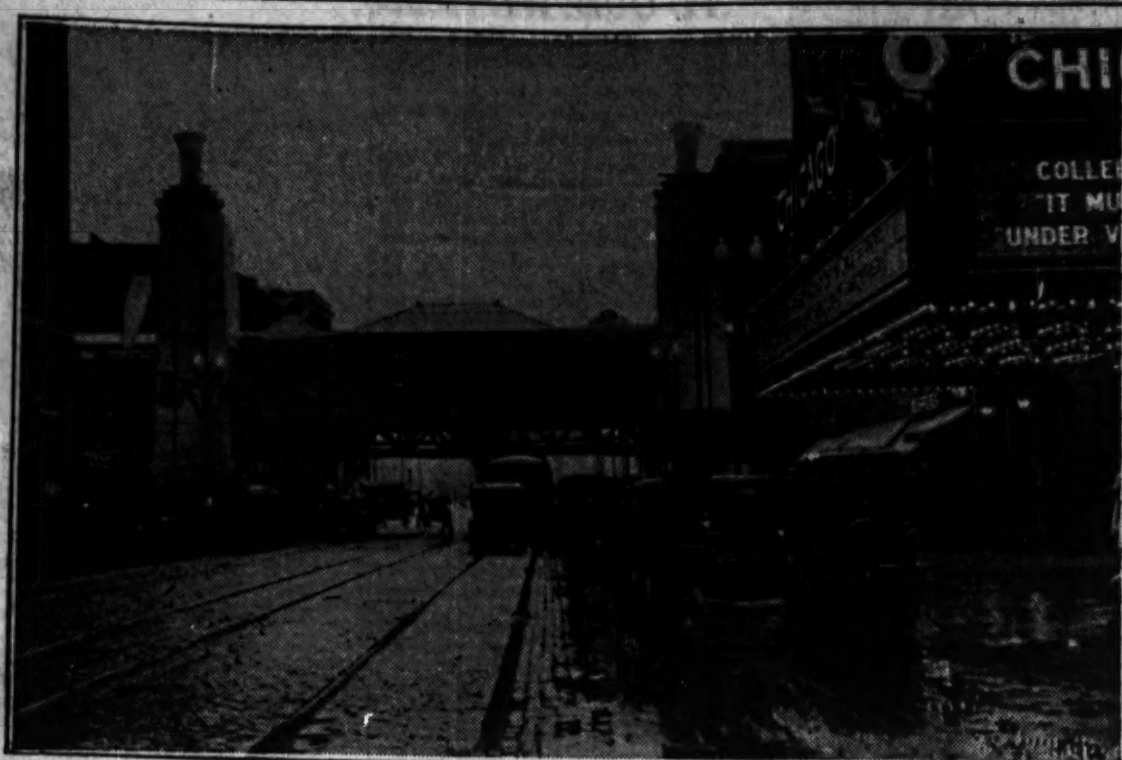

Wild mushrooms picked from the streets yesterday caused the serious illness of four persons in South Chicago. The fungi were gathered by Mrs. Francis Szymanski, 78 years old, at 30th street and Yates avenue. She prepared them for a party at her home, 301 Eganville avenue. Soon after eating them she and her daughters, Mrs. Jennie Szymanski and Mrs. Stella Szymanski, and her son, Louis, became violently ill.

Bull, Menacing Englewood Students, Killed by Cop.

William James Corcoran of the Englewood station yesterday shot and killed a menacing bull after the animal had knocked down and was attempting to gore his partner. Policeman William Corcoran. The police were called to the Englewood High school when the animal terrified 500 students who were in the yard. The shooting occurred at 10th street and Wentworth avenue.

FLUENT SPEECH BE A CONVINCING TALKER.

TURN ON STATE STREET LIGHTS TOMORROW

Archway erected against the "L" road station at Lake street, which will be brilliantly illuminated when the new lighting system is used for the first time tomorrow.

HINDU SAYS JEW AND GENTILE ARE OF SAME ORIGIN

Source of Mankind in Armenia.

Can it be proved that the Semitic race, represented chiefly by the Hebrews of Europe and America, and the Aryan race, comprising most Europeans and Americans, as well as peoples of northern India and Persia, had a common origin?

That such proof is possible is the contention of Jagadish Chandra Chatterji, an authority on Hindu philosophy and history, who has arrived in Chicago to pursue his studies and research at the University of Chicago.

Mr. Chatterji is a member of a wealthy Calcutta family and is related to the family of the famous poet, Rabindranath Tagore. He has held the posts of director of oriental research and archeology at Kashmir and was head of the department of ecclesiastical administration and Sanskrit studies in the government of the Maharajah Gaekwar of Baroda.

Explains Old Testament.

This conclusion, according to the Hindu authority, bears out the otherwise curious statement in the New Testament that Christ belonged to the order of Melchizedek, who is also spoken of as a contemporary of Abraham, and will explain several references to Christ in the past tense, in the Psalms and other Old Testament documents centuries older than the supposed date of Christ.

Mr. Chatterji will speak at the Art Institute at noon on Friday, explaining the symbolism of a group of Thibet pictures.

Army Gets Its Tickets for Service Game Here.

Col. H. J. Koehler, executive chairman of the Army athletic association, departed last night for West Point with the 30,000 tickets allotted to the South Park commissioners to the cadets for the Army and Navy game on Nov. 27. The navy tickets were allotted a week ago. The price of the tickets to the undergraduates has been set at $2.50. Edward J. Kelly, president of the south park commissioners announced that as soon as all the box seats are sold and the cost of transporting and entertaining the visitors has been settled the price of the tickets to the general public will be arranged. He intimated that the price would be something less than $10 a seat.

Common Home in Armenia.

One result of these discoveries would be to trace the origin of civilization of both the Sumerians and the Semites to India. But in this matter also Mr. Chatterji differs from other authorities, and locates the real origin and primitive home of both the Sumerians and the ancestors of the Hindus, not in India, but in the highlands of what is now called Armenia. This conclusion, he believes, is borne out by biblical references.

Equally interesting is the deduction of Mr. Chatterji, drawn from Hindu sources, that the Christ of Christianity was not, as some writers and scholars declare, a myth. According to Mr. Chatterji he was not only an authentic historic personage, but he had close relations with certain sections of the ancestors of the Hindus, and he lived not at the beginning of the Christian era, but at a period long anterior to it, and neither in Palestine nor India, but in the common homeland of Armenia.

Explains Old Testament.

WOMAN CLUB GETS OUT ONE EDITION OF PAPER; SLIGHT GUNMEN NEWS

St. Louis, S. D., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Women of the Sioux Falls History club tonight got out the edition of the Sioux Falls Press, with members of the organization actively in charge of news, editorial, advertising, and circulation departments.

Mrs. R. D. Springer, managing editor for the day, declared "If our people are interested in the stock market, they shouldn't be, and we won't publish the quotations."

Asked how she would handle the Sharkey-Willis prize fight, Mrs. Springer said: "If the white man likes the Negro we'll play it up on page one, and if the Negro wins it'll be played down on an inside page."

Mrs. Springer "played down" the story of Chicago's gangland warfare because it was "an old story" and a "disgrace to any city."

QUIZ INTO BOYS' DEATH MAY LEAD TO JURY ACTION

Coroner Finds Operations Were Unnecessary.

Postmortem examinations of the bodies of two boys who died following operations in the Ashland Boulevard hospital were completed yesterday by Coroner Oscar Wolf. In both cases the operation had been performed for an ailment which did not exist, the coroner reported.

As a result Dr. Amanti Rongetti, proprietor of the hospital, and Joseph J. Rein, 518 Grand avenue, River Grove, face charges in connection with the deaths. Rein has been accused of practicing medicine without a license and is awaiting trial on that charge.

Hint Grand Jury Action.

Circumstances surrounding the death of one of the boys, Joseph J. Paratini, 2547 74th avenue, Elmwood Park, were such as to cause S. L. Antonow, assistant director of the department of registration and education, to hint that grand jury action would be taken.

The boy was operated on for a mastoid abscess. His skull was cut into and he died. The operation was entirely unnecessary, according to Coroner Wolf, whose report named the cause of death as meningitis. The death certificate in the case was signed by Rein, who put the initials "M. D." after his name.

Parents of the boys insisted that Rein performed the operation and that he came out of the operating room with his hands and apron covered with blood, while Dr. Rongetti, following him, was unsoiled. Dr. Rongetti denied this, saying he had performed the operation.

Operate for Appendicitis.

The other boy was Raymond Pfeiffer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Pfeiffer. He died in the hospital after being operated on for appendicitis. There were no symptoms of appendicitis, the coroner declared, the cause of death having been lobar pneumonia. The death certificate in the Pfeiffer case was signed by Dr. Rongetti.

The boy's parents, they said, their son had died at 10 o'clock in the morning. The hospital records showed that the boy did not die until after 12 o'clock.

JUDGE REFUSES TO DELAY SALE OF ST. PAUL RAILWAY

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson yesterday denied the right of the Jameson minority bondholders' committee to postpone the sale of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway. Under the terms of Judge Wilkerson's order, sale of the road will proceed as scheduled at Butte, Mont., on Nov. 22.

Attorneys for the Jameson interests went before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals and a hearing on Judge Wilkerson's decision will be held on Oct. 15.

WACKER DRIVE SCENE OF $25,000 JEWEL ROBBERY

Three young bandits, armed with revolvers, yesterday invaded the Pure Oil building, formerly the Jewels' building, 45 East Wacker drive, held up a gem shop and escaped with loot valued at $25,000.

But Noel, head of Rud Noel & Co., jewelry importers, three of his employees, Joseph Newman, Julius Friedlander, and Paul Rosenberg, and two customers, F. H. Krebs of Kenosha, and Miss Goldie Cohen, a stenographer, 501 North Leavitt street, were the victims.

While one of the bandits held Mr. Noel and the others at bay with his revolver, his two companions rifled the showcases and safe. A total of $25,000 in assorted jewelry, mostly diamonds, and $150 in cash, formed the loot.

Friedlander lost two unset diamonds valued at $1,000 and $150 in cash, he said, while Newman was robbed of $10. Krebs said he saved a $1,000 ring by slipping it from his finger into his vest pocket.

7 FACE JAIL AS RUM SELLERS IN CONTEMPT CASES

Six Aurora alleged booze hangers, all under federal injunctions for several months, were raided simultaneously yesterday by Chicago prohibition agents under Capt. R. Q. Merrick, assistant administrator in charge of enforcement. Hoosh was found in each.

All owners now face jail sentences for contempt of court in addition to whatever punishment may be meted out for second offenses under the criminal provisions of the Volstead act.

The owners of the places raided, and addresses, follow: Henry Phillips, 48 North Broadway; John Petrovsky, 1212 New York street; Cornelius Titchell, 30 North Broadway; Jacob Bury, 21 North Broadway; J. H. Barry, 48 North Broadway and Tom Chuch and Edward Dale, 18 North La Salle street.

There was a variety of stuff in each of the places, including booze, wine and real beer, the raiders reported.

Demand Honest Officials, Pershing Tells Vets.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP) Vice President Dawes and Gen. Pershing, one a crusader in the realm of politics, the other a leader in war, both members of the American Legion, greeted and addressed the annual convention today.

Gen. Pershing said it was important to the "boys" to see that their representatives in local communities were "fine, upstanding, alert, honest men, intelligent and efficient, and not sticklers or demagogues."

VICE PRESIDENT CHARLES G. DAWES (Left Photo)

Dawes Urges People to Vote.

Vice President Dawes was applauded when he declared he believed that the primary system in elections should be "largely abolished."

"If we follow the theory and plan of representative government laid down in our constitution by providing for nomination by conventions, a better and more impartial class of candidates will result," he said.

"But, even if the primary system was abolished," he added, "an increase in the impartial voting in the United States is the crying need of the hour."

"If the American government is to be a success the people must vote," Mr. Dawes declared. "Indifference in the attitude of the public toward the franchise is the greatest existing menace to American institutions."

"In these national conventions," said the general, "it has become the custom of having speakers come to address you, and in reading over these speeches I find that the majority of them take it upon themselves to give advice to

PRESIDENT KINLEY OF ILLINOIS U. TO UNDERGO OPERATION SATURDAY

Urbana, Ill., Oct. 12.—(AP)—President David Kinley of the University of Illinois will undergo an operation for ulcers of the stomach Saturday morning in Mayo Brothers hospital, Rochester, Minn., according to information received here today from Rochester.

DAVID KINLEY.

The operation is expected to be serious because of President Kinley's advanced age and will probably keep him from his desk here for several months. He is 65 years old and has been a member of the University of Illinois faculty since 1922. He became acting president in 1932 when President Edmund James James' health failed and was appointed president in 1933.

The members of the legion and to tell them how they should conduct themselves and to talk about the great problems of peace, seeming to imply that because these men armed themselves for battle and went forth to victory that they have become permanent warriors.

"Now, I want to say that you need no advice as to your conduct in civil life. Men who are willing and anxious to defend the right and to face cannon are always patriots in time of peace, and they are the ones who should give advice to others."

"We are not a political organization, but political affairs must interest us, because they stand for the things that are right; they stand for good government everywhere."

"But it is especially important that you interest yourselves in our local communities to see that your representatives are fine, upstanding, alert, honest men, intelligent and efficient, and not sticklers or demagogues."

The invitation of the government of France for the American Legion to hold next year's convention in Paris was renewed today.

FRANCE PUTS ITS 1927 BUDGET ON BALANCED BASIS

$1,237,951,000 in Taxes to Be Raised.

BY HENRY WALES.

PARIS, Oct. 12.—The French budget for 1927, providing for collections from French taxpayers of direct and indirect taxes amounting to $1,237,951,000, will be perfectly balanced, according to figures made public today by Louis Dausset, member of the senate finance commission.

The budget this year contains no reference to the expenses and receipts from the tobacco monopoly, which according to the constitutional amendment passed last summer now operates independently as an autonomous institution, turning over the profits to the national sinking fund. This removes from the budget $50,000,000 ($127,170,000) expense for maintaining the tobacco regime, as well as $3,000,000,000 ($35,800,000) in bonds.

Lower Exchange Increases Figures.

On account of the increases in salaries and general services, the budget for the ministries has been increased from 15,000,000,000 francs ($419,000,000) to 16,265,000,000 francs ($448,039,000), since the recent reforms and slashes in the personnel will not become effective before the 1928 budget.

Another unexpected increase comes in the funds allotted for payments on foreign debts, owing to the tremendous fall in the exchange. Thus, the amount paid to England in January, 1924, was figured at 95 francs to the pound, while this year it is estimated on the basis of 150 francs to the pound. The $5,000,000 (about $40,000,000) interest due England at this rate would amount to about 1,200,000,000 francs.

The budget for 1927 makes no provision for the payments of exterior political debts. There is included, however, credits for external commercial debts which covers the payments of $29,247,000 to the United States for a 2 P. war stocks and also a provision for taking care of the Morgan loan.

Poland Also Balances Budget.

WARSAW, Oct. 12.—Poland will spend practically one-third of next year's income on the army, it was shown today, when the cabinet accepted all the provisions of the 1928 budget which will be presented to the sejm late in the month. The army appropriation is $22,000,000, or about 27.9,000,000.

The budget will total 1,397,000,000 zloty and the income of the nation will practically meet expenditures, thus giving the country a balanced annual budget for the first time.

The ministry of education received the next greatest amount to the army, $22,000,000 zloty being set aside for the heavy task of practically creating a new school system.

"We Stabilize Lire."

ROME, Oct. 12.—The Italian government is determined to stabilize the nation's currency and wipe out speculation, Finance Minister Volpi asserted this morning at the Columbus day celebration at Genoa. The government's efforts, which have brought the lire from 36 to 24 to the dollar, hit none except the speculators, "for whom no tears need be shed," he declared.

Italy's prosperity has a sound foundation of intensive, national production, but the only way to a healthy economic condition is that pointed out by Premier Mussolini in his speech at Pesaro, Count Volpi said.

The government's program, this

Taiwan learns, is to stabilize the lire at 120 to the English pound—a figure which will enable industry to import the necessary raw materials at reasonable prices and dispose of its products at a fair profit. The first new silver piece, valued at 5 lire, was placed in circulation today. It is somewhat smaller than the American quarter and has a silver value of about sixteen American cents.

British to Convert Bonds.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—(AP)—The British treasury is planning to save $500,000 (about $2,500,000) a year through a conversion scheme in connection with £10,143,037 (about $40,000,000) five per cent treasury bonds maturing February, 1927. It offers holders the chance of converting into 4½ per cent bonds, 1934, at par, with a cash payment of 15 for each £100 five per cent bond surrendered.

The conversion will cost the treasury a million pounds in cash payment but it will save one-half per cent interest yearly on the £10,143,037, or about half a million pounds.

MELLETT WIDOW NIPS FOES' MOVE TO QUIZ WITNESS

Canton, O., Oct. 12.—(Special)—A battle of wits was begun here today between counsel for Louis Maser, indicted for the murder of Don Mellett, publisher, and Mellett's widow.

Maser's trial is set for Nov. 8. His counsel announced today that they would take depositions Friday in the $100,000 damage suit filed by Mellett's widow against Maser, Ben Rudner, and Pat McDermott. Witnesses called included most of those scheduled to be state's witnesses in the murder trial. Mrs. Mellett counteracted by withdrawing the damage suit.

Word has been received here that Max Steuer, New York lawyer, declines to defend Rudner.

SOLDIERS SHOOT DOWN LOOTERS IN CHINESE STREETS

Wuchang Put in Fair Order by Cantonese Army.

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
HANKOW, China, Oct. 12.—The Cantonese put the city of Wuchang in fair order yesterday. Firing squads are busy executing looters in the streets.

The Nationalists assert Gen. Liu Tschun, commander of the northern garrison, was not executed, but awaits court-martial. They say only looters were slain. Gen. Liu was removed yesterday to the quarters of the civil governor, where opium is being supplied for him, he being an addict.

Gen. Chen Kiu-nu, former military governor of Hubei province, also is a prisoner. He was captured trying to escape disguised as a coolie.

Prepare to Move Government.
The incoming Cantonese are taking every precaution to win the favor of the populace, and also are preparing for the removal of the government from Canton to Wuchang. It is possible that there now will be a lull on the military fronts unless Gen. Sun Chuan-fang attacks. Asiatic reports show that he holds Kiang, Nanchang, and the entire railway between these points, having driven off the Seventh Nationalist army, although he himself is withdrawing his troops above Kiang.

Further developments are likely to wait Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang's progress in Shensi province. Although there is much propaganda, there is nothing to indicate that Gen. Wu Pei-fu is able to obtain forces for an attempt to relieve his defeat.

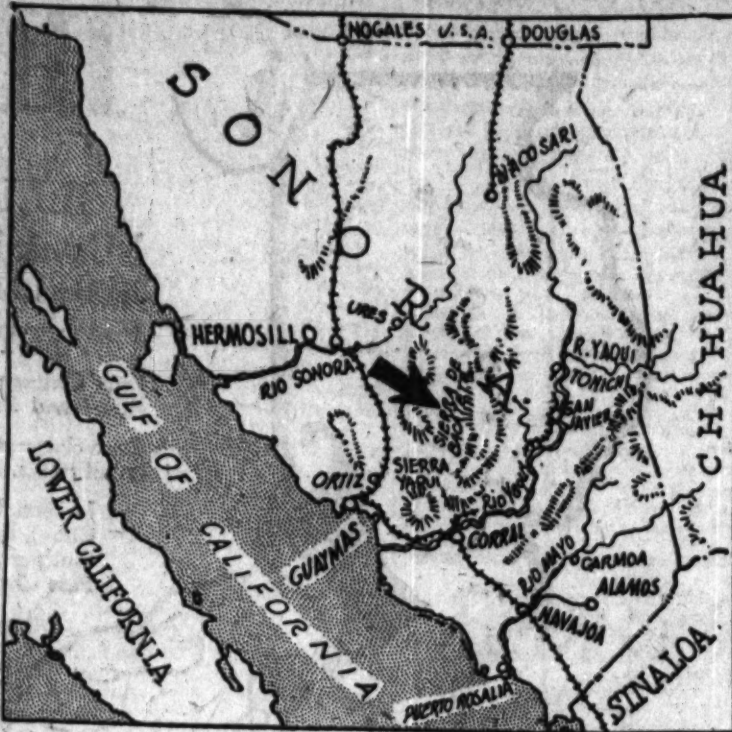

Anti-Foreign Feeling Grows.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 12.—The foreign authorities here are taking precautionary measures owing to the expectation that the warfare between the northern and southern factions soon will be transferred to Shanghai and environs. The labor and student bodies are becoming active in anticipation of the Cantonese advance on Shanghai. In the city of Ningpo, south of Shanghai, an anti-British parade boarded a British ship, forced the foreigners to disembark and later demonstrated before the British consulate, following which they burned a British cigarette store. The Canton government issued a statement today declaring that the calling off of the British boycott must not be interpreted as a lessening of the nationalist movement, which is being broadened to include all the territories under the control of the Cantonese. It is the intention of the Cantonese, says the statement, to push political and economic development, improve local and provincial administrations, living conditions of the workers and merchants, suppress banditry and oppose foreign imperialistic aggression.

Bomb Does $1,000 Damage to West Side Drug Store

A bomb caused damage estimated at about $1,000 early this morning when it exploded in front of the Peerless drug store, 1151 West Van Buren street. The detonation aroused the entire neighborhood and shattered windows in the drug store building and several adjacent structures. Milton Egan, 5543 Flournoy street, one of the owners of the store, could give no reason for the bombing.

Amaro intends to cross the Nayarit mountains on horseback to Tepic, where he and his troops will board trains for Navajao to begin the campaign.

SUITOR SUITS HER, SHE HINTS; QUILTS FATHER

When John Cassidy Sr., 7216 South Shore drive, chased William Shea, 32, out the front door and shot him in the arm a week ago pretty Miss Marie Cassidy, 25, whose wooing by Shea had caused the rumpus, ran out the back way and disappeared. After he had lodged charges of assault to murder against the elder Cassidy and his son, John Jr., who had joined in the target practice, Shea also vanished from his home at 6720 Crandon avenue.

Yesterday the couple reappeared together at the office of Dr. M. J. Mills, 1604 East 79th street, where Shea's wound is being treated. Miss Cassidy, while denying reports of an elopement, offered an explanation of her departure from the parental roof. "I have been staying with friends at 7835 Luella avenue to escape the intimidations of my father and brother," she said. "I will be in court Friday to testify for Mr. Shea against my father."

Shea said that he had left his home for fear Cassidy Jr. would carry out threats against his safety. He is living at the Jackson Park Plaza hotel, he said.

Previous dispatches stated there were fifty-one foreign missionaries in Sianfu, fifteen of whom were American and fifteen British.

HIGH STUDENTS DRUNK AT GAME, PRINCIPAL SAYS

Inquiry Is Demanded Into Girls Smoking, Too.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Charges that Madison High school students were intoxicated on the streets of Richland Center on Oct. 2 when they accompanied the football team for a game in that city and that high school girls smoked publicly both on and off the football field are being investigated by Volney G. Barnes, principal of the Madison High school, it was learned today.

The charges were made by H. S. Bonar, principal of the Richland Center High school, and other citizens.

Mr. Bonar declared that he did not personally see the things complained of, but that one of his instructors and several citizens have reported the case to him.

"They told me that girls and boys alike smoked cigarettes both on the football grounds and on the main street," Mr. Bonar declared. "Others were drinking. I am told that one boy was so drunk that he was ill and his companions were hurrying around to find medical aid for him when a Richland Center man told them to get him out of sight or he would have them arrested."

"This boy was in an automobile parked right in front of the First National Bank building. Whether every one of those seen smoking or drinking was a student no one here knows, but they were all of high school age, apparently."

FASCIST, SOVIET WORLD MENACE, LABOR DECLARES

Green Leads Attacks at A. F. L. Convention.

BY THOMAS WREN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Italy's Fascist form of government was denounced as autocratic and the Soviet government of Russia was called the most unscrupulous, anti-social, and most menacing institution in the world today by the convention of the American Federation of Labor, which will convene its annual meeting here either tomorrow night or Friday.

The federation's declaration on Russia is significant because it virtually places a ban on its membership to participate in a mission which has for its purpose the investigation of the economic conditions of Europe, and including Russia.

Tour of Europe Planned.

Under the direction of L. E. Shepherd, head of the Order of Railway Conductors, a delegation of labor officials, who are not associated with the American Federation of Labor, is scheduled to visit Europe and Russia next summer for the purpose of studying and investigating the industrial conditions. It is also understood that invitation had been extended to several prominent American Federation of Labor leaders to join the party, and that some had entertained thoughts of making the trip.

Attorney Frank P. Walsh, it was announced here, is scheduled to be a member of the mission, and will act as the body's legal adviser. Preliminary arrangements for the expedition have already been made by Albert C. Coyle, editor of the monthly magazine published by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

In discussing the rise of fascism in Italy, Matthew Wolf, head of the International Union of Photo Engravers was Timothy Healy, international

NAVY BIRDMEN TO TRY 1,789 MILE NONSTOP FLIGHT IN SEAPLANES

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Naval aviators, flying two newly developed long range scouting seaplanes, will attempt a non-stop flight from Hampton Roads, Va., to Panama, a distance of 1,789 miles, on or about Oct. 19. It was announced at the navy department today.

The flight will be directed by Commander Harold T. Bartlett, who was recently placed in command of an experimental squadron of long distance seaplanes, organized to determine the possibility of using aircraft for long range scouting with the fleet.

The seaplanes are of PN-9 type. They are a modification of the PN-9 plane used in the Hawaiian flight last summer, one of which holds the world record for long distance non-stop flying. The planes are metal throughout.

Five ships will be assigned to guard the route of the planes and to assist them if necessary. The route planned will be via Cape Hatteras, Miami, Alligator Key, Fla.; Marion, Cuba; Old Providence Island to Colon. Five officers and two enlisted men will make the trip.

President of the Stationary Firemen and Oilers' union, who also has at for and a vice president of the A. F. of L., pointed out in his report as chairman of the resolution committee:

"This form of government is merely a form of dictatorship and autocratic principle which can never find anything but opposition in the minds of free people."

Soviet Recognition Denied.
Discussion on the recognition of the Russian government was brought on the convention floor through a resolution presented by J. H. Goldberg and Percy Ginsberg, delegates of the Millinery workers. As at former conventions of the American Federation of Labor, the resolution requesting the federation to take favorable action in regard to the Soviet government, was defeated by a unanimous vote.

It had a few defenders, however, until a vote was taken and one of these mer conventions of the federation championed the Russian cause. Healy urged that the American Federation of Labor appoint a commission to investigate the economic conditions in Russia.

After Healy had concluded his speech on the convention floor, President Green of the federation asked the leader of the European trip with any alleged labor mission in the event the A. F. of L. voted against the appointment of such a mission.

Evading the question, Healy retorted that he could better answer the question later on.

Magazine Editor Assailed.
"Such commissions," asserted James Wilson, one of the vice presidents of the American Federation of Labor, "are at present working hand in hand with the communist elements here in this country."

"One of the chief sponsors of the contemplated trip to Europe is Albert C. Coyle, the editor of the Engineers' magazine. I would like to inquire as to where the money is coming from that is going to finance this expensive enterprise?"

In commenting on the communist activities President Green of the federation, summarized the program of the "Reds," as he called them, for the last year. He said the aims of the communists and their philosophy are more dangerous to the trade union movement of the country than the propaganda circulated by some employing classes.

"The American trade union movement," he said, "must decide on the best methods to rid itself of this sinister element whenever discovered."

He termed the communists as a reptile force which would sink its fangs into the innards of the American labor movement, destroying, if possible, its foundation.

Greene Fires Shot at Eddy.
"Why did Dr. Sherwood Eddy, the international secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, come to this year's convention of the American Federation of Labor?" shouted Green.

"He wasn't invited and yet, through some clever misrepresentation, flooded this convention with Russian propaganda in the form of glowing tributes when he spoke of conditions in that country."

Vigorous denunciation of the subversive campaign of Russian sympathizers within the ranks of organized labor in America was voiced by John J. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. Lewis named William Z. Foster, an officer of the Trade Educational league, who was in the gallery watching the proceedings.

Massolini Has No Crown Aspirations, Doctor Says

Premier Mussolini of Italy is actuated only by a desire for a united and prosperous country and has no aspirations to the imperial crown, according to Prof. Robert Alessandri, head of the medical school of the University of Rome, who passed through Chicago yesterday on his way to a conference of surgeons in Montreal. King Victor Emmanuel and the Duce are on the best of terms, he added, and the latter would never dare to seize the scepter.

Schoolgirl, 16, Missing 12 Days; Police Join Hunt

Search was started by the police yesterday for Miss William McKay, 16 years old, who has been missing from her home at 5748 Harper avenue since Oct. 1. She was a student at the Hyde Park High school and was an accomplished musician. Private agencies, employed by her father, William McKay, secretary of the Viscosity Oil company, 1101 West 37th street, were unable to find any trace of her. Her parents believe the girl may have suffered a breakdown as the result of overstudy.

HOW WET ARE YOU? VOTERS OF MARYLAND ASK

Question of Degree in State, Senate Races.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 12.—[Special.]

—In this state, where the Volstead act is so unpopular

that the legislation never has enacted a state enforcement law,

the question put up to the candidates for office is not "How dry are you?" But, "How wet are you?" The race for senator

and governor is between the wets

and wringing wets.

The performer

in this show upon whom all eyes are fixed is Gov. Albert

C. Ritchie, the forceful and engaging leader of the "back to sanity" movement, as his parliament has his demand for modification of the prohibition law and the revival of the principle of state rights.

Candidate for Third Term.

The governor is a candidate for a third term, which never has been accorded a state executive in Maryland.

Even, many of his fellow Democrats are wrestling with misgivings of the insidious encroachment of monarchical tendencies and Mr. Ritchie finds he has a fight on his hands. And this is a crucial time for Mr. Ritchie.

Gov. Ritchie is a promising possibility for the Democratic nomination for President two years hence. He is as well as Al Smith, but a Protestant and a southerner, and looms up as a possible compromise between such warring forces as split the Democratic national convention of 1924. If reflected this time he will leap into the front rank of Democratic presidential possibilities. If defeated he still may be in the race, but his prestige will be considerably impaired.

Rival a Shade Less Wet.

Ritchie's Republican opponent, Addition E. Mullikin, bids for the preference of the electorate not as a dry but as a shade less wet than the governor. Mr.

Mullikin doesn't want anybody to get the idea that he is any more in favor of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act than is Ritchie. He would not think of proposing enactment of a state enforcement law. But where he does call for the support of all sincere drys on the enforcement of the pre-prohibition state liquor laws. Ritchie says he stands for that, too.

Likewise, in the senatorial contest,

the difference between Senator O. E.

Weller (Rep.), and his Democratic opponent, Representative Millard E. Tydings generally goes Democratic.

RIVAL ASKS THE STATE TO REJECT MAGILL'S SENATE RACE PETITION

Objections to the nomination papers of Hugh S. Magill, independent Republican candidate for senator, were filed at Springfield yesterday by William

Matthew Holderby, director of the Christian Family crusade and campaign manager for Samuel C. Irving, one of the dozen senatorship entries.

Mr. Holderby says the law which requires such papers to specify the party or political principle which the independent candidate represents. Mr.

Magill filed as an independent Republican and Mr. Holderby argues there is no such party as "Independent Republican."

The Magill camp last night said the petition followed the customary form in use in Illinois for many years, and that legal experts passed on them when they were drawn up.

"The objection is an absurd quibble," Harold L. Ickes of the Magill camp said. "The wording of the Magill petition followed the regular form and were in full accordance with the law. The phrase 'Independent Republican' embraces all the requirements of the statute. We don't believe anybody ever will throw out a petition on any such whimsicality."

The Holderby objection, which also applied to the petition of James H.

Kirby, independent Democrat, was referred by Secretary of State Emmerson to Attorney General Carter for an opinion as to whether it should be rejected.

ings, is, so far as prohibition is concerned, only a degree of wetness. Walter stands for modification, but is not rampant on the question, while Tydings is as wet as Ritchie.

The population of Maryland is divided fifty-fifty between Baltimore and the rest of the state. Baltimore is dripping wet and how the folks do enjoy it, while rural Maryland is dry—

at least politically. Ritchie is expected to carry Baltimore by a majority sufficiently large to offset the margin

his Republican opponent is likely to have in the remainder of the state.

Maryland Likes Conservatism.

Tydings probably could not beat

Weller if he were not riding on the

Ritchie ticket and he may not succeed at that. Weller is an exceedingly able politician and has won the support of Democratic business men to a degree that is believed more than to counterbalance defections in his own party caused by the jealousy of political rivals.

Maryland is a conservative state and generally goes Republican in national elections. Weller's support of the Mellon plan of tariff reduction, his opposition to the soldier bonus, and defense of the protective tariff has proved so popular even with Democrats that Tydings has found no point of advantageous attack.

Tydings is a young, world war soldier who made a magnificent record in France. He is a dashingly figure. It happens, also, that Maryland has changed its system and is now electing its governors in the even numbered years. So the national election for the first time is hooked up with the state election and in state elections Maryland generally goes Democratic.

ECONOMIC UNITY, YOUTH TELLS OF RELIVING DAYS OF CLASSIC GREECE

Natural resources of Europe are greater than those of the United States chiefly because the Mediterranean sea, which corresponds to the great lakes,

is open to both the Atlantic and the Pacific oceans, while the chain of lakes in the United States is landlocked and inaccessible to larger ocean going craft. This was the observation of

Norman Angell, English publicist and political lecturer, to the Covenant club

at its luncheon yesterday.

Mr. Angell contended that the prosperity of the United States was no longer due to the great natural wealth of the country, but to its economic unity.

CUTS KEROSENE PRICES.

Effective today, the Standard Oil company of Indiana will reduce the price of kerosene

in the Chicago district one cent a gallon, making the retail figure fourteen and a half cents. An announcement of the cut was is-ued yesterday.

Romance was the young-lecturer's favorite word. He called the tour his "glorious adventure." He was thrilled when he visited the grave of his boy-hood hero, Rupert Brooke, poet, on Skyros island in the Aegean sea. He had read of Achilles running thrice around the walls of Troy, and so he also ran three times around the spot where he imagined the historic city had stood.

Son of Man Who Fought

in Revolution Dies at 95

Downey, Cal., Oct. 12.—Judge L. P.

Phillips, 95, the last known person living whose father fought in the revolutionary war, died here today. His father, John Phillips, enlisted at 17.

Judge Phillips was born in South Carolina when his father was 73. Death came as the result of injuries suffered in an automobile accident last Sunday.

His widow and thirteen sons and daughters survive the patriarch, who came to California forty-three years ago.

He had advised Mrs. Wiseman to testify in this case and tell the truth,"

Hahn said. "She is throwing herself on the mercy of the Superior court."

The district attorney's office today centered its efforts on attempts to locate the mysterious "Mr. Martin."

HOW THE C. & N.W. WORKS TO CARRY ITS COMMUTERS

Traffic More than Doubles
—Trains Earn More.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The average number of suburban trains, daily on the Chicago & Northwestern railroad in and out of Chicago for selected years in comparison with the time table showing the number operated yesterday, follows:

Year.	Number.	Year.	Number.
1900.....	169	1909.....	200
1901.....	169	1910.....	188
1902.....	184	1911.....	190
1903.....	201	1912.....	204
1904.....	200	1913.....	200
1905.....	200	1914.....	200

That table is illuminating when considered in connection with the number of commuters carried each year. In 1903 the suburban trains handled 10,839,290. The next year the number went up to 10,807,575. The next year the number jumped 650,000 to 10,857,264. In 1906, the following year, the number jumped 600,000 more to 11,746,270, and again the next year it jumped up 470,000 to 12,245,939. It will be noted from the above table that the average number of suburban trains in that period between 1903 and 1907 was increased from 169 to 204.

Lean Year, Traffic Drops.
Then came the business depression. Many persons were out of work and the suburban traffic on the Northwestern dropped down 1,400,000.

The riders in 1908 numbered 10,839,290. The Northwestern management at the time either paid little attention to the suburban business or decided that it could induce sufficient commuters to travel on the Northwestern, because the average number of trains that year totaled 200 and it will be noted that the number was boosted in 1909 to 209 while the riders varied comparatively little in number, being 10,844,642.

Then in the next year the management turned around and cut off 23 suburban trains, yet the traffic went up to 11,176,376. That was in 1910. In 1911 seven of the discarded trains were restored and the commuters increased to 11,841,690. In 1912 the number of trains got back to the number operated in 1907 and the number of commuters did likewise. The 1912 number was 11,852,165.

In all of those years there was no loud wail that the suburban traffic was a burden on the financial well-being of the Northwestern. The management may have had some thoughts on the subject, but there was no petition to the public authorities asking that permission be granted the Northwestern to discontinue its suburban service.

Some Comparative Figures.
Then came the world war and the increase in wages and other operating costs. The report of 1916 says the average number of suburban trains that year was 189—a decrease of 15 from 1912.

In 1924 the number of commuters using suburban trains totaled 21,790,231, and in the suburban territory there were 615,664 persons who bought tickets at the long distance rate or paid cash on the trains. That makes an aggregate of $2,434,496 commuters. The suburban traffic gross income, as estimated for 1925, does not indicate there will be more passengers this year than in 1924. The income estimate indicates perhaps a trifle fewer commuters.

During the year 1912 the commuters totaled 60,000 for each suburban train operated. On the basis of the above estimates there will be 90,000 commuters this year for each suburban train operated. Let no one get the impression that there is crowding on the Northwestern suburban trains such as there is on the street cars and elevated cars during rush hours. Employees of THE TRIBUNE who use the Northwestern assert they nearly always get a seat during the heaviest rush hours.

Fleets of Seats Provided.

On the 230 daily trains on the present time table, there are enough vacant seats, if the number of commuters in 1926 is not any larger than in 1924, to make up more than 25 average trains of six cars each. The Northwestern attempts, with unusual success, to operate enough trains during rush hours to give every one a seat.

Adding, however, 20,000 passengers a year for each suburban train operated certainly increases the income per train. On a percentage basis, this 20,000 represents a third increase.

That has been accomplished by the care exercised by the management, without inconveniencing the commuters. Then the so-called 20 per cent increase in fares has resulted in an actual boost of about 14 per cent in gross income.

Before the rate boost the average revenue from each passenger on a suburban train was 12.287 cents. A boost in that average of 14 per cent brings it up to 17.498 cents. A third more passengers per train, at the increased rate, boosts the gross income considerably per train. At the same time wages have gone up, materials and supplies essential to the operation of trains have been increased in cost. The result is that the Northwestern estimates its operating loss on its suburban service this year at $150,000. The number of suburban trains is now so large as to interfere with operation of freight trains.

BIG SHAKEUP IN MEXICAN CABINET IMPENDS, REPORT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Mexico City, Oct. 12.—El Imparcial, a semi-government organ which generally is well informed, asserts notable changes are impending in President Calles' cabinet as follows: "Ambassador to the United States Telles will be minister of foreign relations; the present minister of foreign relations, Sefor Somoza, will be Mexican minister either to Belgium or France; Alberto J. Pani, minister of finance, will go to Washington as ambassador, and Ramon P. Deneget, minister to Berlin, will return to Mexico and become governor of the federal district in place of Gen. Francisco Serrano, who will become minister of the interior."

FAKE COPTAKEN FOR CON GAME IN PUBLIC LIBRARY

Clyde Taylor, 34 years old, who asserts that he was graduated as a physician from the Washington university at St. Louis, was arrested last night in the public library on charges of operating a confidence game and impersonating an officer.

The complainant, Wendell H. Bolton, 6553 Elizabeth street, a law student, alleged that Taylor approached him in the library, informed him he was under arrest and started to the detective bureau with him. In front of the building, Bolton added, he was released on payment of $5.

But the victim stepped over to the Central police station and told of being victimized by a grafting detective. Sgt. Steve Ledy went to the library with Bolton and found Taylor. He wore a fake star.

DEVER PRAISES OLIVET INSTITUTE AT DEDICATION

Mayor William E. Dever was the principal speaker last night at exercises dedicating the new $500,000 plant of the Olivet Institute at Blackhawk street and Cleveland avenue.

He spoke of the beneficial work that the institute had done since it was established in 1888 and complimented Superintendent Norman Barr for his success. It was largely through him, the mayor declared, that Olivet had prospered.

Other speakers were William J. Hogan, assistant superintendent of schools; Alva Arthur F. Albert, Carl B. Roden, Chicago public librarian; Dr. Grant Taylor, of the Chicago commons, and Mrs. Bertha Baur, who presided. The dedication exercises will be continued through the week.

It is guaranteed not to shrink!
Each garment is individually cut by hand.

Each garment is full-fashioned to fit exactly all the curves of the figure without bulk or wrinkles. Human hands cannot tear it—and unless it is torn, it cannot "run."

Embroidered silk buds at crotches and all other seam junctures doubly reinforce these points. Shoulder straps are locked into the top silk band, so that they will not tear off.

Straps, ruffles, etc., are finished by a picot edge that always keeps its shape and gives a dainty, lace-like appearance. Every seam is stitched with pure thread silk.

At last you can get pure silk underthings incomparably softer, richer, finer than any you have ever seen—yet so strong that they will wear much longer than the finest glove silk.

QUEEN ON WAY TO U. S.; HEALS FAMILY FEUD

cars of the ship, together with the crew, stood at attention. After introductions, the queen went to her suite, which had been newly decorated and newly furnished. It was fragrant with flowers and on the desk was a mountain of messages, some wishing the queen farewell and others bidding her welcome to America.

Queen Marie looked particularly attractive as she started on her voyage. She wore a kimmer coat, of gunmetal shade fading into gray, over a simple brown tailored suit. A chic brown felt traveling hat topped her auburn head. She wore a white orchid over her heart. Her slippers and hose were in harmony with the rest of the costume.

Princess Ileana was dressed in a brown cloth traveling coat of rough texture and underneath it a girl's frock of brown, her small hat harmonizing in shade. Prince Nicholas wore a long rough gray English ulster, with gray fedora. He led the queen's precious little black spaniel, named Crag, the constant companion of Roumania's royal family.

QUEEN KISSES CAROL

BY HENRY WALKER.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
[Copyright: 1926: By The Chicago Tribune.]
PARIS, Oct. 12.—Sudden and dramatic proof of the reconciliation between former Crown Prince Carol of Roumania and his mother occurred this morning when Queen Marie left on the boat train on her way to America. The prince, who accompanied his mother in a limousine from the Ritz, conducted her along the platform to her private car. Then, as the departure whistle blew he drew up to a stiff military salute and, bending low, kissed the queen's hand.

Marie seemed stunned and surprised by the formal gesture and, stepping forward, seized Carol in her arms, clapping him to her breast, and kissing him on both cheeks in continental fashion.

Apparently surprised by this evidence of affection from his royal mother, Prince Carol blushed deep red with gratification and pride and returned the maternal embrace.

Embraces His Sister.
The prince then planted fraternal kisses on the cheeks of his brother,

COURT RULES GUEST OF AUTOIST ASSUMES RISK OF POOR DRIVING

Madison, Wis., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—A guest accepting an automobile ride cannot collect damages for injuries resulting from lack of experience on the part of the driver, if such lack of experience was known to the guest, the State Supreme court held today.

Helen Cleary of Marinette county, accepted an automobile ride from Mrs. Albert Eckart. During the drive a tire blew out and Mrs. Eckart set the brakes. The car skidded and Miss Cleary was thrown out and injured. She brought suit, claiming Mrs. Eckart was negligent in suddenly setting the brakes. The lower court awarded her $100 damages.

Justice Owen, who wrote the Supreme court opinion, held that Miss Cleary knew of Mrs. Eckart's limitations as an automobile driver when she accepted the ride and that, with her limited experience, Mrs. Eckart acted in accordance with her best judgment.

Prince Nicholas, and embraced his sister, Princess Ileana, at the same time queuing her around the waist.

As the train pulled out Prince Carol stepped off the platform and disappeared in the crowd with his pal, Michel Miroca, a Roumanian newspaper man.

As he was hurrying down the platform, Prince Carol was asked, "Aren't you sorry you are not going to America with the queen?" to which he replied, smiling, "I already have visited the United States," referring to his trip across the continent several years ago during his journey around the world.

This Tribune is informed that Prince Carol dined at the Ritz with Queen Marie, and his brother and sister last night in the strictest privacy and afterward the younger prince and princess withdrew, leaving the prince and his mother to talk confidentially for two hours.

This Tribune also is informed that practically all the difficulties over Prince Carol's return to Roumania as heir to the throne have been removed and he probably will accompany his mother to Bucharest when she returns from the United States, to pay his respects to his father, King Ferdinand.

Nearly all the political objections against Prince Carol's return have been eliminated, especially since the unwieldy regency originally planned to supersede the crown prince was found unworkable, and has been met with antipathy by the people of Roumania.

Magda Lupescu, the bobbed, red headed soul mate for whom Prince Carol abandoned his wife, the Greek Princess Helene, continues to be the principal obstacle of the reconciliation, but this Tribune is informed that the royal family finally has decided to let the eldest son have his own way about picking his girl friends, since he has stuck so determinedly to this one.

GIRL BURGLAR'S VISIT NO DREAM, AGED MAN FINDS

Dons His Clothes, Takes His Cash, and Flits.

Rock Island, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—W. H. Mahoney is convinced that the ways of a woman—at least of the present day flapper—are beyond his understanding.

Mr. Mahoney was sleeping peacefully in his residence early this morning when the door of his bed-chamber creaked open, awakening him, and a girl of 18, lithe, slim, trim and bobbed haired, slid in.

She found it no dream.

Mr. Mahoney tried to convince himself he was still asleep, but his mature judgment—for he is 71 years old—told him this was not the start of a dream. This judgment was backed up by his visitor for she poked at Mr. Mahoney a revolver, not a lady's nickle weapon, but a lethal looking, black monster, frippery as a gila-monster. Peeking out of the chambers, Mr. Mahoney could see the reserve bullets, for all the world like rattlesnake eyes. The whole was held as steady as Gibraltar as the lady spoke.

"Listen, grandpop," she said, and she still smiled, "you do as I want and you're not hurt."

"Yes'm," said Mr. Mahoney, "but I got nothing you want; I'm only a poor old man."

Girl Dons His Clothing.
The visitor was not listening. She gathered up Mr. Mahoney's clothing and stepped behind the door. Mahoney could hear mysterious rustlings and soon she emerged clad in his garments. She demanded thumbs and when the host produced them, put on a cap and forced him to chop off all the locks that showed beneath, like the mothers of old once went around the bowl inverted over the children's heads.

"I have been out drinking hooch all evening, have had a devil of a time, and must get away," the visitor chattered merrily. "My boy, friend and I are going to hop a freight."

Then she pocketed the gun, called a "Good-night, grandpa," and was gone with the $2 that was in Mr. Mahoney's pants pocket.

Hair Styles In Paris

By Edna Wallace Hopper.
This is how girls and women were dressing hair in Paris when I was there last summer. Some have permanent waves, smooth and glossy. Some have one-week waves combed over the fingers. Some have sleek hair like a well-groomed boy's.

For all styles they use a new-type hair dress, such as I use. It keeps the wave or curl. Or it keeps hair fluffy, like my hair, if one desires. Or it keeps hair smooth and glossy without grease. At the same time it gives the hair a luster and enhances the color. I have never found a hair dress to compare.

At the hair counters now sell that hair dress as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75 cents.

Whatever style of hair you like best, this is something you must try. It keeps the wave, the curl or the fluff. Or it keeps the hair sleek without grease. Then the added beauty it gives will amaze and delight you.

TAG DAY BRINGS IN $124,000—A CHICAGO RECORD

Tag day receipts of the Children's Benefit league Monday were discovered yesterday to lack only $4 of totaling $124,000, it was announced by Mrs. Charles E. Frankenthal. The small balance will be made up by belated contributions, according to Mrs. Frankenthal, chairman of publicity, giving the 20,000 women and girls who disposed of the tags on Monday the distinction of having broken all known records for a single day's tagging in Chicago.

Fifty charitable institutions caring for dependent children are beneficiaries of the league. Cooperation of Mrs. Frankenthal and other newspapers was credited for the record by league members.

Hollywood Speaks for itself

Hollywood Beach Hotel after its battle with hurricane

Another after-storm view of Beach Hotel

Storm blew hole in end of Parkview Hotel

Little Ranches homes demolished by storm

Broken palm tree chief damage to home of Joseph W. Young

In Truthful After-the-Storm Photographs and Careful Figures, it Makes its Report

By Paul R. John, Mayor of the City of Hollywood, Florida

IN the thirty-six hours that the Florida South-east Coast was cut off from outside communication by the hurricane, and for two days after, Hollywood was the victim of many wild rumors and unverified figures of havoc utterly contrary to fact. Our city was reported "wiped out."

If you have a picture of Hollywood lying in ruins; if you see it a city of demolished homes; you have an imaginary picture that would vanish the instant you traversed one of our streets.

I am going to give you an official inventory of Hollywood as it is now. I am going to make it as accurate, as a careful survey and valuation of the damage can. I am going to give you as true a picture of Hollywood as photographs taken after the storm can show you.

Hollywood Still There and Alive

If you were to visit Hollywood to-day, you would drive over streets completely cleared of debris. You would see no destruction to sidewalks or pavements. On each side you would find all the familiar buildings standing, some of them showing scars of the storm. You would observe the business section along the boulevard crowded with automobiles, and shops doing business.

And if you knew Hollywood before the storm, you would say to yourself: "Hollywood is still Hollywood, severely shaken in spots and damaged in places, but still a sturdy and very much alive community."

For the business section of Hollywood is doing business. Six buildings were destroyed by the storm, and none of them was solidly constructed. Every well-built structure is in its place.

As you went about the city you would, if you looked below first appearances, find that lightly constructed buildings and houses had collapsed, and that properly built structures came through the hurricane with no basic damage—chiefly shattered windows and smashed roofs. Uninjured apartment houses and residences alike testify to this fact.

In the Lake section, its handsome homes and villas are intact. Chief damage here was done by water to lower floors. One construction company had 50 houses in this section, and lost none.

Between the Park View Hotel and the Dixie Highway a large majority of homes and apartment houses came through intact. The Hollywood Hill Section, including the Hollywood Inn, was almost immune from the storm. Though the gale leveled many pine trees, neither wind nor water did much injury to residences. In brief, throughout Hollywood, the Dania and Hallandale sections, about $5,000,000 damage was done. Against this loss is $2,000,000 insurance.

Beach Hotel opens December 1

Hollywood Beach Hotel, facing the ocean, stood the brunt of the hurricane. It will require $150,000 to repair the store rooms on the broad walk. The real structure, however, is unimpaired. Work of restoring the hotel building itself and of renovating the interior is going ahead rapidly. The beautiful mural decorations inside are unharmed. Lobby, lounge and dining room, the pride of the Southeast Coast, are exactly as they were before the storm. The hotel opens December 1st, completely renewed in every detail, ready for the winter season.

It is estimated that $60,000 damage happened to other hotels in Hollywood. This is completely covered by insurance. Two hotels are already open and the third, the Park View, will be ready December 1st.

The removable roof of the Golf and Country Club was damaged, but the club house itself and golf course came through in excellent condition.

No damage was done to equipment and development work at the Bay Mabel Harbor. Operations on this project will go forward at once.

This is no attempt to minimize loss. There has been serious loss to Hollywood. Hollywood suffered; it went through hours to try the heart of a people. A survey of the city engineers found 3,029 damaged buildings and residences.

Many Homeless in Little Ranches

In the section known as "Little Ranches" where people of modest income had erected light dwellings, or temporary abodes, the hurricane shattered and smashed them by the score. While the loss, figured in cold dollars and cents, is not large, either in total or to the individual, the people who must bear it often lost all they had.

The Red Cross Society is caring for them. It is feeding them and housing them in temporary quarters. Their want cannot be exaggerated. Only the aid of the Red Cross can restore their homes.

In truth, all Hollywood needs sympathy and what is more to the point, intelligent and substantial help. The city has much to rebuild, and it needs aid to do it. Homes must be restored, not alone by open-handed gift to those who have lost all, but by loans to those who can help themselves.

A dollar lent in Hollywood does a triple duty. It restores a home, it helps a city rebuild itself, and it earns eight per cent for everyone who aids this work.

Co-operative Loan Bureau

To foster such help, a co-operative loan bureau has been established in Hollywood. Its function is to co-operate with capital in the North, with men who see an opportunity to use their money in a good work on a sound business basis. This bureau handles free of cost all the official steps and necessary precautions to protect the loan. It works with the representative of money, as an expeditor. There is no place where $50,000 to $100,000 can finance a worthier effort to better advantage.

This is a survey of Hollywood after the storm. It is not forced hopefulness. It is written from first hand investigation, from unbiased and unprejudiced valuation of damage.

In another month Hollywood will be going along as normal. It is preparing for the winter season. It will have every comfort, convenience and entertainment ready for its Northern friends when they come. Hollywood Beach Hotel, every hotel in the city, will be as luxurious and entrancing as their guests have known them. The visitor will look about in vain for signs of the storm.

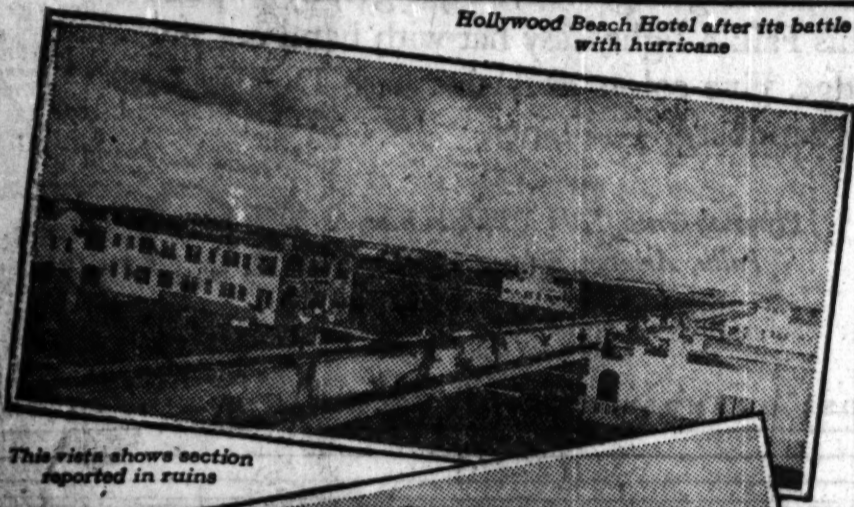

Write for Storm Pictures

Look over the photographs printed here carefully. Do they suggest a "wiped out" city? Each was taken a few days after the storm. Each shows effects of the storm. But together they show a live and doing city.

Hollywood has many friends throughout the United States. Many are keenly interested in her and her future. They may seek other definite and more specific information on the effects of the storm. Write our city—ask us about anything you wish to know—and your letter will receive an immediate reply.

INDIANA WAITS FOR REAL 'GOODS' STEPHENSON HAS

Much Amazing Sorcery;
No Actual Documents.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 12. — (Special.)—On this weird day of the week of the dreadful month of Indiana politics all eyes are turned toward the dragon who will not stay slain, waiting with mingled emotions for the reappearance of David C. Stephenson among the living.

If this long silent voice is raised from the tomb of Michigan City prison what great names will be blasphemous? What political fortunes will be lost? This is in every one's thoughts today, as the former dragon of the Ku Klux Klan prepares to appear again on the scenes of his lost power and glory.

What has "Steve" really got?

What did the "old man" put away in his vault?

This is what Indiana wants to know. They are suspicious, but unconvinced. The documents are the only things that will count—four alleged contracts with major politicians, the alleged cancelled checks showing campaign expenditures never acknowledged under the corrupt practice act.

Nothing But Documents to Count.

Clyde Wall, Republican state chairman, professes no fear, only an immense curiosity. He sees in this the greatest political hoax of the country, a gaudy dream such as Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn might have dreamed as they lazed down the Mississippi on their raft.

But if it does turn out such a fantastic plot, there is plenty of evidence to show its basis in the old position which Stephenson held. But nothing but the documents will count—iron riveted, concrete, undisputed.

And these seem to be the cause of more frenzied maneuvering, more secret conferences and trips, more intriguing and double crossing, and talk than one would find at a national Democratic convention.

"Yes, times have changed," said Court Asher, the interesting ex-bodyguard, aviator and confidential agent for the grand dragon, sadly.

"Here is a police ally I got for leaving my car parked. A few months ago I could write my name across fifty of these and my friends had no more worry."

When Steve Was "Good."

"I was on the reception committee at the governor's inauguration. One of those highbrow fellows came along and gave me the once over and says: 'O, I see some of Stephenson's thugs are here.' Well, I hunted that guy up at his hotel that night and gave him the worst licking he ever had. He was on his knees and I guess I almost stomped his face in. They sent in a riot call and the police kept me in jail nearly an hour."

"When Steve was going good he was a wonder. Billy Sunday had nothing on him for a spellbinder. We used to sit on the platform and laugh at his kliegism. A kliegism, you know, is one of the guys in on the money."

"We would count up the crowd as they stood there listening to Steve telling them the pope was going to burn little children alive and bring Christ himself right down on that platform."

"We would try to figure how much the crowd was worth, as they took the oath, blocks of hundreds—their faces lifted to Steve as though he was something holy."

Feeling Them by Drown.

"Sometimes, like that time at Kokomo, when Steve came down in the field in his airplane, they would go wild and throw money on the flag on the platform. Us kliegism would roll up the flag and stuff our pockets."

"We used to hire ministers at $25 a lecture and then get their whole congregation to join at $10 a head. We would have a party with booze and women, then put on white robes and march into a church, and give them back maybe $50 of their own money in an envelope, kneel in prayer, and then some of the boys would go right back to the bottles and women."

"I have seen lecturers step down from the platform and, after talking about Christ, call me to get them a bottle of whiskey. It made me a little sick of humanity, but I had to laugh."

"We used to go into a town and distribute a lot of fiery crosses. Then Steve would go after the mayor and judges and others."

Making Enemies of Old Friends.

"And he got them. He had this state swayed up once. Indianapolis, Muncie, and Evansville were the best places."

"We used to promise anything to anybody just to get them in. If John Jones hated John Smith, we would tell Smith we would take care of his enemies and boycott his rivals. Well, they came in in thousands. I guess we took in half a million in those three years. It was great while it lasted, but I am kind of ashamed of it now. I saw old friends and neighbors turned into deadly enemies by the Klan."

"It was all organized by Steve, who had a poison squad system by which he could say one word and in a day it would be buzzing all over the state."

"The political allies were made up, sent into headquarters, and the day before election Steve would send out the Klan ticket, all scratched and marked, and every klanman had to vote it."

Political history of the last three years shows whom Stephenson worked with in the big game. This forms the basic situation which makes plausible the charges of the former klan leader.

But there the situation rests. When it comes to evidence showing that political leaders put their names to corrupt bargains with Stephenson, actual signed documents of an incriminating nature, Indiana wants to be shown.

SMITH NARROWLY ESCAPES AS AUTO
SKIDS INTO DITCH

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 12.—(UP)—Frank L. Smith, Republican candidate for United States senator, and State Senator Harry Wright of De Kalb, had a narrow escape today when the car in which they were riding to this city from Peoria skidded from the road in the Spoon river bottoms near Canton and was ditched. Two other buses carrying the Republican caravan also went in the ditch on the way here. The occupants of the car and buses were shaken up, but no one was hurt.

Stephenson last Saturday he told me of certain symbolic letters he would put in all telegrams from him which he meant to be followed. Those letters are not in these telegrams.

Try to Get Documents.

In the meantime there have been efforts by both Adams and his committee and by the enemies of the committee to get certain documents from Miss Mildred Meade, an Indianapolis woman whom Stephenson is supposed to have trusted so much that he would place in her possession such papers.

There was, also, another effort to get at the "black box." It was rumored that this was in the possession of L. G. Julian of Evansville, a former trusted friend of Stephenson, and at torney Kiplinger, with Julian, yesterday went to the Michigan City prison. Kiplinger and Julian were said to have been in conference with Stephenson for some time and then left for Chicago together.

The civil matter referred to in the supposed Stephenson telegram to Attorney Miller is a receivership proceeding before Judge Sidney Miller in the Superior court, in which a writ of habeas corpus has been issued ordering Stephenson brought into court at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. It is reported here that Warden Daly of the penitentiary has stated he does not know whether he will comply with the writ, but that he has received the grand jury summons for the former grand dragon and that he will obey that.

"POSTAL DEFICIT" MISLEADING IDEA, PUBLISHERS SAY

Blame Ancient Accounting by Department.

BY HARPER LEECH.

If the post office department were charged with making a commercial success of only such business, as is by nature commercial, it would be bound to making a handsome profit every year. There is no such thing as a postal deficit in the sense that the difference between income and outgo constitutes a deficit, as that term is applied to the operations of private corporations.

That is the conclusion reached in an analysis of postal operations issued under the auspices of the National Publishers association.

Like Army and Navy.
This study of postal operations is expected to have an effect on postal legislation to come up in the December session of congress. Proper accounting would show that the present postal deficit of $40,000,000 is in fact a $100,000,000 profit, because the department loses $140,000,000 per year on services producing little or no revenue—not expected to produce any, and probably no more susceptible of being made self-supporting than the army and navy—while almost as necessary as either. The $140,000,000 loss on public service should be borne by the nation, which is benefited, not saddled on other lines of business, which are actually handled as business transportation the analysis points out.

On the operation of rural routes the postoffice department loses $30,000,000 a year. The last appropriation for that service was $105,600,000. All the postal business passing over those routes produces revenues of about $117,000,000 a year, but the service is pronounced a national economic necessity, in the publishers' analysis.

Another Source of Expense.
The postoffice department loses $11,000,000 per year through special rates to preferred religious, fraternal, and scientific publications. This is primarily a cultural service, analogous to that of the public schools—not a business operation. The department loses $2,000,000 a year on the air mail—the service which is maintained to develop a new mode of transportation and a military art. Foreign mail foots up a $4,500,000 loss, but without it difficulty of operation of star routes, "franked" and "penalty" mail, and "free in country" mail pile up losses of $11,000,000. None of these services could be maintained if the traffic were required to be self-supporting.

Profit on First Class Mail.
The so-called cost-of-ascertainment report of the postoffice department for the year ending June 30, 1923, claimed that the department made a profit of $30,000,000 on its legal monopoly of first class mail. But it is shown that second, third, and fourth class mail participate to some extent in the special facilities for handling first class mail with extra safety and dispatch, and because of that participation, which is not needed for that character of business, those classes of mail are charged a pro rate of the special expenses of handling first class mail. The subsidiary classes of mail are charged with part of the costs for five or seven deliveries a day in the business sections of large cities, for instance.

Rates for the handling of classes of mail should be made, as freight rates are made, with the value of the service considered, the analysis contends.
If the principles of the cost ascertainment report of the postoffice department were followed in the fixing of freight rates, charges for scrap iron and sand would approximate those on automobiles and furniture, the publishers' analysis says.

Canadian Growers to Ask Tariff on U. S. Garden Stuff

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Toronto, Ont., Oct. 12.—Canadian fruit and vegetable growers agreed today to demand of the King government a seasonal tariff on early grown American produce. They will make their plea soon before the tariff board. They claim Canadians gorge themselves on American products which cross the line before Canadian stuff is edible, and Canadian grown fruits and vegetables subsequently go begging.

Andy was left with the Volunteers of America here a year ago by a daddy who promised to return but didn't. Last night three specialists were ready to drop their fight against the ravaging fever. Tonight two specialists went to their homes for the first real rest in forty-eight hours. Andy plainly was better.

COURT DECIDES TODAY ON SCOTT PLEA FOR STAY

The state supreme court will decide today whether to delay the execution of Russell Scott, convicted slayer of Joseph Maurer, a drug clerk, which is set for Friday. The court has been asked to review Scott's insanity hearing by Attorney William Scott Stewart, who yesterday filed a petition for a writ of superadeas to stay the execution.

Should the court refuse to grant the writ it will mean that Scott has finally exhausted the legal appeals which have kept him from the gallows for two years. If the writ is granted the execution will be stayed at least until December before a final decision is given.

Jail Warden Fogarty said he probably would place Scott in the reconditioned death cell this evening unless the superadeas is granted.

BRITISH UNIONS REFUSE TO AID STRIKING MINERS

Reveal Workers' Poverty
After General Strike.

BY JOHN STEELE.

LONDON, Oct. 12.—Angry scenes and outbursts again characterized the National Labor party conference at Margate today. The discussion of the mining crisis precipitated the row. The extremist section demanded an embargo on coal and a levy on the trade unions in the miners' behalf. They were badly routed, J. H. Thomas, the railroad men's leader, lashing them unmercifully.

There was a tremendous uproar when Mr. Thomas arose. The extremists tried to shout him down and forced him to remove his hat. When he did get a hearing, Mr. Thomas made remarkable disclosures of the ruinous effect of the general strike on the trade unions, explaining why the railroad men and other big unions could not pay the levy.

Unions in Bad Shape.
About 45,000 railroad men are unemployed and 200,000 are working only three days a week, 3,000 transport workers are out of work, 100,000 are working part time, and other big unions are in even worse circumstances as a result of the strike, Mr. Thomas said.

Ben Tillett, secretary of the dockers' and general workers' union who recently returned from an American trip, stated that his union had spent $1,000,000 ($3,000,000) in the miners' interests and is $200,000 ($2,500,000) in debt. Ramsay MacDonald tried to pour oil on the troubled waters, but was interrupted by the extremist, D. Kirkwood, who contributed this description of the mine owners: "The most mur-

CITY PAYS HONOR TO COLUMBUS ON 434TH BIRTHDAY OF HIS FAME

Chicago in general and the Knights of Columbus and the Sons of Italy in particular yesterday paid tribute to the stout hearted Genoese navigator, Christopher Columbus, on the 434th anniversary of the discovery of America. Schools were dismissed for the day, and banks, courts, many of the offices in the city hall and the county building, and a number of business houses were closed.

Twenty-five hundred persons attended the celebration at the west side hall of the Knights of Columbus, 4711 West Madison street, where a three-fold observance was held. Swimming exhibitions were given, dancing went on in the ballroom, and a meeting in one of the halls was addressed by the Rev. F. J. Siedenber, dean of Loyola university.

Leopold Zunini, Italian consul general, was the principal speaker at a meeting of the Sons of Italy at La Rosetta restaurant in Rush street. Members of the Venetian union in Fullman staged a parade in honor of the occasion last night.

More than a thousand boys celebrated with a party in the Hyde Park Y. M. C. A. Their guest was J. V. Parker, owner of a department store at 55th street and Kenwood. Mr. Parker was chosen by the 1,100 boys as the most useful citizen of Hyde Park, to them.

He is chairman of the boys' work department and president of the Hyde Park Kiwanis club. derous and bloodthirsty set of capitalists that ever held sway."

Miners Retain Steadily.
Another exciting incident occurred when the chairman ordered an extremist delegate to sit down. The delegate replied: "Order be damned! How in hell can I take a seat when some one is occupying it?"

A resolution that property could only be assured in industry by nationalization of the mines was carried by a large majority.

Meanwhile, the miners are returning to work daily, nearly 200,000 more being reported today. A. J. Cook, the miners' secretary, says 10,000 Derbyshire miners who had returned to work, have left their pits again as a result of his campaign in the mining areas.

COOK REALTORS SAY VOTE 'NO' ON TAX AMENDMENT

Proposal Will Not Keep Taxes Down.

Seven outstanding reasons for voting against the proposed revenue amendment to the constitution were developed by the Cook County Real Estate board which is said to represent 50,000 property holders, yesterday. At a meeting called by J. F. Hecht, president, a committee report was submitted by Calvin Dickey, who has spent months of research into taxation systems in Illinois and other states, urging adverse action on the amendment. The members by an overwhelming vote sustained the report and the board will issue an appeal to the electorate to vote "No" on the proposal in the November election.

The chief arguments advanced against the proposed change emphasized that the amendment will not reduce taxes on real estate.

No Urgency Exists.
In the debate, speakers declared that some advocates appear to be attempting to stampede the voters with cries of a crisis in tax affairs, but that in reality no urgency exists. They spoke of the danger of repeating new and tremendous powers in a state machine at Springfield which has already made one effort to grab control of Chicago's tax system for political exploitation.

The major arguments against the proposed amendment as given by Mr. Dickey are as follows:

1. The fact that the legislature has refused to redistrict the state; in the face of the failure of the lawmakers to uphold the constitution in this regard it would be folly to grant them new and larger powers.

2. The proposed revenue amendment is general in terms, and no one can tell what it means nor to what extremes it might lead.

3. The experience of other states which have income taxes and classification of property shows that not enough difference has been made to warrant any change in the Illinois constitution.

4. No constitutional amendment is needed to bring the Illinois revenue laws up to the level of other states in effectiveness. Property does not require classification to get a tax out of it, and existing possibilities have not been developed.

Political Manipulation.
5. The proposed change would open the way to political manipulation at Springfield and the entrance of political machine abuses into tax affairs with a consequent damage to general business.

6. The proposal would not in any way reduce taxes on real estate and acres.

7. No urgency exists. The general property tax has always been in the Illinois constitution, and there is no emergency or need of immediate action despite the effort of advocates of the proposal to stampede the voters.

REDS USE FISTS AND INK BOTTLES IN PRUSSIAN DIET

Attack Police in Riot Over Hohenzollern Bill.

BERLIN, Oct. 12.—(The New York Times.)—The Prussian diet was turned into a battlefield today on the occasion of the second reading of the bill to adjust the Hohenzollern railway for indemnity against the Prussian state. The measure won on the first ballot by a vote of 210 to 38. The Socialists and Hanoverians abstained.

The voting followed eight hours of unbroken violence, culminating in a riotous engagement, with the red deputies on one side and the rest of the legislators on the other. Several were wounded by flying fists, ink bottles and other missiles.

Early in the day communist members made the sitting a mass meeting for the promotion of a world revolution.

Reds Go on Rampage.

The red deputies joined with a host of their unemployed partisans in the public galleries in singing the "Internationale." Both on the floor, where pandemonium and riotousness had supplanted order from the start of the day, and among the ragged and scowling mob thronging the galleries, incendiary speeches denouncing the former Kaiser, the present republic and all things capitalistic were bawled out by the communist agitators.

The communists put their leather coats and iron lungs to work as soon as the diet was convened. Like a wolf pack in full cry, they barked forth a steady stream of billingsgate against anybody and everybody concerned in the proposed settlement. Criminals, bloodsuckers, and murderers were among the feeble epithets they applied to the Hohenzollerns. The monarchistic right was driven into a frenzy of rage and below the speaker's rostrum blows were exchanged frequently.

Women Battle Police.

Deputy Kasper repeated his tumbler throwing act for which he was expelled yesterday. The presiding officer expelled him and another communist, whose violence took the form of bombarding the right with law books. The public tribune was ordered cleared. With the appearance of several policemen in the galleries a furious clamor broke out there, and a move to assault the police began, encouraged by the revolutionary deputies on the floor. The screams of women spectators, some of whom tossed books down on the heads of the embattled legislators, added to the din. The riotous public was ejected after several sharp clashes in which heads came into abrupt contact with police helmets.

Before the bill finally was passed on the second reading the sitting had to be suspended twice more. Massed phalanxes of communists hurled themselves against groups of deputies trying to keep them away from the speaker's platform. The Reds laid a veritable barrage of ink bottles, blotters, and other hard objects on the Nationalists. Bartels, president of the diet, received a cut on his head from one of these flying missiles. Individual communists were flung bodily out of the chamber.

SHRINE TO BE OPENED TONIGHT.

The Rev. Albert R. Dolan of the Carmelite order will officiate this evening at 8 o'clock at solemn services marking the opening of a new shrine to St. Theresa, the "Little Flower," at St. Agatha's church, Douglas boulevard and Kedzie avenues. The services will continue tomorrow and Friday nights.

B. & O. ASKS BUS LINE FRANCHISE TO OFFSET PASSENGER LOSSES

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad wishes to enter the bus field in West Virginia to protect its interests because one-third of the road's loss last year in passenger revenue was incurred through operation of local trains. William E. Lowes, assistant to the passenger traffic manager, told the state road commission today.

He appeared in behalf of the application of the West Virginia transportation company, a subsidiary, for a bus franchise on the Charleston-Parkersburg road. He said that West Virginia was the only state in which the Baltimore and Ohio had found it necessary to enter the bus business.

80 Year Old Hermit Found Unconscious from Gas

William Williams, 80 year old hermit, was found unconscious in the kitchen of a flat at 2823 East 95th street, where he lived alone, last night. He had been overcome by gas leaking from a valve on his cook stove. A pulmotor squad was summoned and after he had been revived he was taken to the South Chicago hospital, where it was said his condition was serious.

Mexico Arrests 6 Priests After Religious Parade

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Charged with leading a subversive assembly, six Catholic priests have been arrested and jailed here. They are said to have headed a procession of Catholics who visited and worshiped at the Guadalupe shrine today, the anniversary of the crowning of the Virgin of Guadalupe, Mexico's patron saint.

FATE OF ZONING LAWS UP TO U. S. SUPREME COURT

Newton D. Baker Leads Test Case Fight.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Zoning ordinances all over the country may be nullified if an attack on the validity of an Ohio village code which was completed in final argument before the United States Supreme court today is successful. Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, as counsel for a Cleveland real estate firm, is attacking the Euclid, O., ordinance on the ground that its restrictions are a confiscation of property in violation of the guarantees of the federal constitution.

Indicative of the importance of the case to every municipality which has adopted zoning laws is the fact that the Supreme court heard the dispute last spring, and, after consideration, ordered it reargued this fall in greater detail, as well as the further fact that a number of national organizations of zoning officials and advocates have allied themselves with the Euclid village authorities to resist Mr. Baker's attack.

Involves Big Subdivision.
The case involves the classification of a 68 acre subdivision adjacent to a business thoroughfare, which, under the village code, has been zoned as residential and which the owners, the Ambler Realty company, through Mr. Baker, contend should be classed as industrial.

A federal district court, on Mr. Baker's petition, enjoined the village from enforcing the residential classification and the village appealed to the United States Supreme court.

Mr. Baker's attack centers on the "arbitrariness and reasonableness" of the section which places the client's property in a residential zone. The village contends, however, that the attack is broad enough to overturn the whole ordinance and similar codes wherever they have been enacted.

It was argued by counsel for the vil-

GOTHAM NURSERY FOUNDERS VISIT CHICAGO "CRADLE"

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Chapin, well known in philanthropic circles in New York, left Chicago yesterday on the first lap of a trip around the world. They visited three days in Chicago, passing most of their time at The Cradle, 2029 Ridge avenue, Evanston, which is similar to the Alice Chapin Adoption nursery, founded and directed by the Chapins.

Although their institution was established ten years ago, while The Cradle has been in existence only three years, Dr. and Mrs. Chapin were enthusiastic over the methods in use at the Chicago infant hospital, which is the largest of its kind in the world. They declared their intention of altering a part of their administrative system to conform to that of the Chicago institution.

There are at present at The Cradle more calls for babies for adoption than there are babies to adopt, according to Mrs. W. R. Walrath, director.

Arraign Man Today on Charges of Young Girl

Patrick J. DeVaney, 25 years old, 4433 South Halsted street, will be arraigned in Justice Park today on a charge of attempting to assault a young girl with whom he made an automobile date early yesterday. Lieut. Carl A. Wolf of the county highway police heard the girl's screams as he was passing the forest preserve at West 87th street, and hurried to her rescue. Two men companions of DeVaney were held on charges of disorderly conduct, while their women companions were released.

YOUTH SHOT WHILE HUNTING.
Charles Givewski, 19 years old, of 13223 Baltimore avenue, was sprayed with buckshot yesterday when a shotgun in the hands of his friend, Clyde Critchank, 1820 Avenue L, was accidentally discharged. The men were hunting. Givewski's injuries were not serious.

FARMER'S FAMILY IS WIPED OUT BY TRIPLE SHOOTING

Barre, Vt., Oct. 12.—[AP.]—A triple shooting that wiped out a family of three in a lonely farmhouse Sunday night was discovered today. The dead were P. Russell Morrison, 28, his young wife and six year old daughter, Joyce.

The police believe that Morrison, in a sudden fit of insanity, shot his wife and daughter after they had retired, then ended his own life. It was known, they said, he had long brooded over his health and farm affairs.

Morrison's body was found on the floor of the kitchen. On a bed in the next room lay Mrs. Morrison with her daughter clasped in her arms.

A shotgun found on the floor beside Morrison's body apparently was the weapon used.

HOLD WIFE IN SLAYING.
Centralia, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Capitola Hogan, 34, is held in the Marion county jail at Salem on a charge of murder following the death here today of her husband, Claude Hogan, 35, from gunshot wounds.

ROMAN CHURCH, LITHUANIA SPLIT ON VILNA DISPUTE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 12.—According to reports from Kovno, a serious conflict has developed between the Roman Catholic church and the Lithuanian government. The Lithuanian Archbishop Skusevski recently called a conference of five Lithuanian bishops. After discussing the attitude of the government toward the church, the archbishop presented a note to the Lithuanian government, which stated:

"We look upon the recent government measures as the beginning of a fight against the Roman Catholic church. We do not desire a conflict, which we feel would be enormous, both for the church and for the young Lithuanian republic. The whole responsibility for the present differences lay upon the present Lithuanian cabinet."

Answering a question in parliament yesterday, Prime Minister Siergiejeus stated the government had decided to stop all subsidies to Catholic institutions in Lithuania.

The conflict began some months ago when the pope recognized Poland's claim to the Vilna district by putting the Vilna churches under a Polish archbishop.

New Dishes from Old!

Meals, meals, meals—three times a day they face us! Visions of the same old sort of foods over and over again makes the task seem difficult.

Dinners are the biggest worry, for after a few weeks of roasts and broils, every meat seems to taste alike and there never seems any way to vary dinner. But here is a solution of the problem.

It is not necessary to have expensive meats—it is simply to take a quite usual dish and add to it something which will lift it out of the everyday class. Sauces are one way of adding variety to a dish, another is to combine everyday foods in an unusual manner.

Chopped round steak, for instance, is a very usual sort of meat dish, but cover it with a rich sauce seasoned with stuffed olives, anchovies and mushrooms, and you have a course fit for a king. Mashed potatoes are tiresome week in and week out, so for a change season them with egg yolks and parsley, and brown with grated cheese.

Fried ham is good, but cook it with plenty of brown sugar, pineapple juice and slices, and the result is wonderful. Spaghetti, when cooked with mushrooms, celery and bacon strips, takes on a new air that is appetizing. Dried beef, when creamed with pineapples and Swiss cheese, will tempt all the family.

An ordinary beef stew, if cooked slowly with plenty of vegetables and seasoned with lemon slices and bay leaves, is delicious. These suggestions show how simple it is to make entirely new dishes out of the foods that seem so tiresome and overworked.

Other suggestions with menus and recipes appear regularly in the A & P News—have you had a copy from your local store? If not, write me for one, or for any help you want in planning and cooking meals.

FOR THURSDAY'S DINNER

HAM WITH PINEAPPLE

2 pound slice of ham
6 slices of pineapple
1/2 cup brown sugar

This Girl KNOWS- Do You?

This girl has THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in her home. She can explain to you interestingly and correctly all the familiar things which she sees around her. Her teacher will tell you that when she wants a quick and intelligent answer from her class this girl always answers first. She understands many subjects of interest in the papers and magazines and in the conversation of her elders. She has made a "long start in the race for knowledge."

CURIOSITY— —The Great Teacher—

CURIOSITY is the beginning of all knowledge. Do you know any subject about which your child has not asked you a dozen questions? Let him ask as many as he likes, and be sure to answer them correctly. That is the parent's most important and most easily neglected duty. If you discourage your child's curiosity you will injure his mind, and the bright boy or girl becomes stupid or indifferent. Through curiosity Columbus discovered America. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the simplest and most natural method of helping the child to educate himself. IT ANSWERS EVERY QUESTION A CHILD CAN ASK, IN PLAIN AND SIMPLE LANGUAGE. So captivating is this great original work to the mind of a child that he absorbs with little effort the profound truth and great facts of the world of knowledge while reading its delightful pages and looking at the thousands of striking educational pictures.

Your Child Is Unique

Your child is like no other child in the world. He has his own peculiar taste and need for both physical and mental food. If you put a meal before him and let him choose what agrees with him best, he will thrive. THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE is the right kind of nourishing food for the child's mind during the growing years. Give your child this remarkable original work, and watch carefully which of the 18 Great Departments interest him most. Nature, Science, History, Biography, Astronomy, Physiology, Art, Literature, Poetry and Manual Training. It will prove THE KEY to his natural bent, and the kind of work or profession in which he will most easily succeed.

Your Child's Chance

In round numbers, what is your child's chance to become successful? If uneducated, he has one chance out of 150,000; with a common school education, 4 chances; with a high school education, 87 chances; WITH THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE in the home, every chance. It is not a luxury; it is an absolute necessity. It is an INVESTMENT in your child's future which will pay dividends as long as he lives. In over 1,000,000 homes today the children are reading THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE. Give your child his chance to compete with them.

SHARKEY BEATS WILLS ON FOUR IN 13TH

KUTSCH-PETERS
DUEL LOOMS IN ILLINI STADIUMRival Backs May Shape Outcome.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

When Illinois and Iowa clash in the homecoming football game at Champaign on Saturday, two star half backs will match their skill and the result may hinge upon the ability of either to carry the ball over the goal line or boot it between the posts.

Iowa will depend upon "Cowboy" Kutsch, a seasoned player, who should be at the peak of his game on the week-end. Kutsch is a driving ball carrier who can run the ends or hit the line with equal success. He is the type of player who carries on when tackled and the Illini must hit him hard and low to bring him down. They must make sure of their tactics, as Kutsch regains his feet quickly, and unless he is held when tackled he will make many extra yards.

Peters' Toe Dangerous.

Illinois is banking on Frosty Peters, its sophomore half back, who has great possibilities. Aside from being valuable in carrying the ball, Peters is a punter and drop kicker.

Peters is deliberate in his drop kicking. The writer took special notice of this player in the Coe game, when he booted three drop kicks after touchdowns. The manner in which Peters goes about his efforts shows he has spent hours in perfecting the art. He does not take much time to tuck the ball after receiving it from the center. He drops it to the ground so that the oval lands on one end and he then sends it sailing through space with a powerful swing of his right leg. Some of his goal kicks after touchdowns carried at least 40 yards.

Like most players in their first year of intercollegiate football, Peters has a tendency to leave his interference too quickly. He did this a few times in the Coe game. In fact, he flustered away from his blockers and tried to skirt the ends. Such tactics will not make ground against Iowa or any of the other strong eleven.

Other Good Ball Carriers.

Kutsch and Peters, however, will not be depended upon entirely to bear the brunt of the offense for their respective teams. Other players nearly as valuable in totting the ball will be called into commission.

It will be the old case of teacher versus pupil when the two teams take the field. But Ingwersen, the husling Iowa football leader, learned all his football under Zuppke, who claims Burt is one of the best line men he ever developed. Ingwersen has devoted slightly from the Illinois style of play, while Coach Zuppke is too cozy to use the same plays which resulted in victories over Coe and Butler.

It is expected that more than 50,000 alumni of the downstate school will be in the stands, not only to see the game but to pay their respects to George Huff, the venerable director of athletics, who fought a winning battle for his health in England last summer and who yesterday returned to the downstate school.

DEMAR TAKES
PORT CHESTER
MARATHON RACE

Port Chester, N. Y., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Clarence Demar of Melrose, Mass., veteran long distance runner, today captured the annual New York to Port Chester marathon race with Albert (Whitely) Michelson of the Cynnet Athletic club, Port Chester, second.

Demar's time was 2 hours 23 minutes 35.5 seconds.

Yonkers, Pocatello to Play for Boys' Baseball Title

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Yonkers, N. Y., and Pocatello, Ida., met at the Sequoyan stadium Thursday in the final game for the boys' national baseball championship under the auspices of the American Legion. In the final series, which started yesterday, both teams won two games and lost none. Pocatello today defeated Yonkers 8 to 1, and Yonkers beating Eldorado, Kan., 18 to 1. Yesterday Pocatello defeated Eldorado and Yonkers defeated Springfield.

Boy, Ill, Dreams

After Ruth Calls

East Falls, N. J., Oct. 12.—(Special)—"N" the Babe stood right there where you're standing now," Johnny Sylvester was holding forth today.

The 11 year old youngster, who was sick bed was graced for a few ecstatic moments by the presence of Babe Ruth on Monday when calling the hero of the hour to every school boy and baseball fan of East Falls.

The visit of his idol did Johnny a world of good, according to his mother, Mrs. Horace C. Sylvester. He is now getting up. That will be later in the week, if the Babe's healing influence keeps on working as it has.

This morning Johnny awoke from a dream that he had been playing baseball with the Bambino. He talked continually about the great Ruth.

Columbia Wins Gloucester Fishing Fleet Race Title

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 12.—(AP)—The Gloucester Columbia, piloted by Ben Fife, today clinched the championship of the Gloucester fishing fleet by winning the second consecutive race with the Henry Ford, captained by Clayton Marjorie.

The official time at the finish was Columbia, 2:41:18; Ford, 2:49:58. This lead of 4 minutes and 40 seconds had been held by the Columbia over the last two legs. Thousands lined the shore and scores of excursion boats stood off shore during the race.

CHICAGO TO DROP
N. U. FROM GRID
SCHEDULE, RUMORLewis Case Stirs Maroon Officials.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

This old question of eligibility which never has been settled satisfactorily in college circles may cause a break between two old rivals whose football contests date away back into gridiron tradition. It is reported from a reliable source that the University of Chicago is planning to give the cold shoulder to Northwestern university after this year's combine game, which is booked for Nov. 13.

It is explained that the action of President Scott of Northwestern in declaring Leland Lewis eligible after announcing last fall that the big full back would be barred from athletics for a year, has stirred the authorities on the Midway deeply. As recalled, they were guilty of cutting classes for quite a period after Northwestern beat Michigan down on the lake front by a score of 3 to 2. He attended summer school to make up his lost work.

Maroons Are Fuzzed.

Just before "Cin" was reinstated, Capt. Moon Baker, star half back, also had been declared eligible because he attended summer school.

Chicago's authorities, according to the information obtained, are also in a state of confusion. And there also is talk on the Midway that the athletic authorities not only are peeved over the reinstatement of these two stars but are also worried because of a suspicion that the Purple authorities made overtures to Chuck Duval, the Chicago back who played in some of the games last year. It is understood that Duval intended to register at the Evans school this fall but changed his mind after his fraternity mates at Chicago implored him to stick with the Maroons.

Hartz Wins
Speed Grind;
Sets Record

Salem, N. H., Oct. 12.—(AP)—Harry Hartz of Los Angeles, Cal., virtually clinched the 1926 automobile racing championship and broke a world's record for the 200 mile race for the Rockingham track when he won the 200 mile feature race over the board speedway here today in one hour 37 minutes and 21.25 seconds.

Hartz finished two laps ahead of Penn Kreider of Knoxville, Tenn., who in turn led Leo Duray across the line by 3:00 of a second. The winner's speed average was 123 miles an hour.

Hartz gained his victory at the direct expense of Frank Lockhardt, 1925 Indianapolis winner, and until today work in preparation for its contest with Chicago on Franklin field Saturday.

During the thirty minutes in which the first eleven scrambled two touchdowns were rung up. The first was scored in about three minutes and would have been tallied in much less time had it not been for the variety of fumbled and fumbled frequently when in the shadows of the scrum's goal posts. Al Wassolonia, star half back, finally carried the ball ten yards on a fake play for a touchdown.

Dick O'Driscoll, working with the second team back field behind the first line, scored the other six points just before the players were sent to the showers.

The world's record for racing automobiles with motors displacing 900 cubic inches was twice broken in the 200 mile race. In the first, Bennett Hill of New York won with an average speed of 136.57 miles an hour, making the distance in 13 minutes 32.41 seconds. Hill's new record lasted only a few minutes, however, for in the second 200 mile sprint Leon Duray of Los Angeles covered the distance in 11 minutes 59.23 seconds.

Penn Batters Scrubs

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 12.—(Special)—Following an incident during scrimmage practice on the University of Southern California, football field, Head Coach Howard Jones ordered Howard Elliott, letter man and varsity quarter back, off the field.

Elliott has been a mainstay of the Trojan team for two years and is one of the cogs around whom the coach was devising plays for the big games against California, Stanford, and Notre Dame.

Elliott became angered at some hard tackling and was engaged in an altercation with his tackle when Jones came up. Jones addressed a remark to Elliott and when the player answered back the husky ex-Hawkeye coach put him off the field.

Woman Sheds Suit in Try for Swim Record

North Germantown, N. Y., Oct. 13.—(U. N.)—A woman swimming in the nude from Albany to New York, a distance of 135 miles, is the latest spectacle presented to Hudson river towns, which have seen such sights as the Clermont, the first steamboat, and college regattas. Mrs. Lottie Moore Schomacher, a Bronx mother, who is attempting to break the record of Miss Gade Corson for the swim, found her bathing suit cumbersome, removed it, and adorned herself with a thick coat of grease.

Purple Fails to Stop Frosh; Stagg Keys Maroon Squad

Rain and mud failed to halt a stiff two hour practice session outlined for Northwestern university football men yesterday and the athletes went through a workout consisting of scrimmages, signal practice and fundamentals.

In the scrimmage the frosh took the offensive with Indiana plays and gained consistently with forward passes. The varsity, however, was successful in halting the line attack.

30,000 Seats Saturday.

No new plays will be taught the team. The coaching staff is satisfied that the present repertoire of plays is sufficient to battle the Hoosiers.

Capt. "Moon" Baker reported for practice suffering from a slight cold and was kept out of uniform.

More than 30,000 seats will be ready for Saturday's game. Accommodations for 40,000 for the Notre Dame game a week later and 40,000 for the dedication game with Chicago on Nov. 13 are promised. These figures include 6,000 temporary and seats to be erected behind the goal posts.

Notre Dame Tickets Left.

Ticket Manager Edward B. Davidson announced that a few tickets still are available for the Notre Dame game. They are $3 each and applications may be made at the central ticket office, 1432 borel street, Evanston; The Hub, Evanston, or A. G. Spalding's, Chicago.

On the Alexander Subject.

Dear Harvey: In view of the annual pitching by our old friend Alex in the world's series, don't you think it would be entirely fitting and proper for Messrs. Wrigley, Veck, and McCarthy to join in signing the little ditty entitled "This is not the Alexander we have been used to?"

Cobb, Sisler and Fohl Through as A.L. Pilots, Rumor

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Three new managers, possibly four, will be doing business in the American league's next season. This much has been mooted out of all the rumors and whispers that went around while the magnificence of the White Sox finally formally gathered last week to celebrate the ceremony of deciding a world's diamond title.

One leader, George Sisler of the Browns, already has been noted that he is out of employment as a manager. Leo Fohl is slated to be dropped at Boston, where even a transfer of the club holdings is possible. The story Ty Cobb is said to have received a formal hint that he is not to be retained as the Tiger pilot, and there seems to be a suspicion that because the White Sox failed somewhat this year and because Eddie Collins can no longer be considered a regular player, that a new directing genius will be appointed by Owner C. A. Comiskey.

Cobb is supposed to have been told several weeks ago that the club desired to make a change. The same thing has been rumored in other years, but the club officials never were in a position to dictate to the great player. Now, however, Cobb has reached the stage where he must spend most of his time on the bench, and the Detroit fans have ceased to respect him as they did when he was a wild man as a hitter and on the bases.

The name of Killefer has been linked with the St. Louis job that Sisler couldn't fill because he wasn't sufficiently hard boiled to handle ten minute eggs. Bill Killefer has talked with Owner Ball, but the real individual involved is Wade Killefer, brother of Bill, who now manages the Seattle Coast league team.

FOOTBALL SCOUTING.

DISCUSSION of the ethics of football scouting is rife again among those who cling to the idealistic in our great college sport. That subject had seemed settled until the recent reported agreement between Yale and Princeton to discontinue the practice.

Scouting of future opponents has come to be recognized by practically all colleges. The young men assigned to this task, instead of snapping off to some secluded part of the grounds to make notes surreptitiously and possibly suffer student mobbing if discovered, now report to the athletic director of their rivals and are assigned seats for that purpose, usually in the press stand. Their standing is unquestioned. They do not feel like "spies."

To the Wake this appears the proper solution. It certainly is far better than the old secret method. We think it better than a "gentleman's agreement." Perhaps Yale and Princeton, long and respected rivals, can keep the spirit as well as the letter of such compact. We doubt whether it could be generally enforced.

Enthusiastic alumni, attending games of a future rival, are pretty sure to write concerning that team to their head coach. Our faith in human nature has not reached that point where we expect the recipient of such a letter not to be interested. Can you picture him turning it into the waste basket if it really contains information?

Under the present system all is fair and aboveboard. Every eleven has equal chance to scout its rivals. There can be no recriminations or suspensions. Until the millennium is nearer at hand we prefer the method now in vogue.

College Songs.

(Here's one from the University of California via Helper Tookays Annabae.)

STANFORD'S JONAH.

When the training days are done
And the Big Game's just begun
And there's music in the air
When our team trots on the field
Stanford knows her fate is sealed.
For the Golden Bear has left his lair.
When the yell from Insty throat
Starts in getting Stanford's goat
And the rooting section comes a howling mob,
Then rest! grab your hat and shout.
You'll let folks know you're about.
For you know that Stanford's Jonah's on the job.CHORUS.
So then it's UP with the Blue and Gold,
DOWN with the Red, California's out for a victory.
We'll drop our battle ax on Stanford's head,
Our team will surely best her.
Down on the Stanford team you'll hear us sound.
When our "Oski" rises through the air,
Like our friend Mr. Jonah, Stanford's team will be found.
In the tummy of the Golden Bear!

Dear Harvey: "Michigan Knight's" form on conference fields arouses my ire. Perhaps he forgets that technically Northwestern tied Michigan for honors last year, but showed good sportsmanship in waiving. The test of a great team is not whether it can play in nice weather on a nice field but whether it can play and win in nice weather or rainy weather or mud. Watch Northwestern go!

Wills' Eye Hammered.

It was in the sixth that one of Sharkey's overhead punches coming out of the confusion of a sudden shift caught Wills beneath the right eye and ripped the skin, blurring Wills' vision. The wound did not swell noticeably, but the eye became inflamed as though there had been a dab of resin, powder or liniment on Sharkey's glove, and Wills spent his intermissions thereafter, burying his face in the towel.

Wills Slips in Ability.

Wills, like Dempsey in the fight with Tunney, seemed to have slipped after a career of waiting and complaining interrupted only by mild exasperation. He was gulped by the fighters' spart and around the trivial pokes that had amused him so as they fanned his flabby middle at the beginning became a serious inconvenience.

Sharkey weighed 166 pounds to 214 for Wills, and he showed up as a run before the big negro as they went out for the first round.

Furthermore Wills swung him this way and that, parried his arms and twisted them back and handled him languidly with a patient, tolerant smile, that it seemed only a question of guessing the round in which Wills would whip up his right hand to Sharkey's chin or plunge it into his body and knock him out.

But Haley cramped Harry's style and Wills loathed through the first three rounds making an elaborate show of good ring manners while Sharkey swayed into him, hanging him on the back with both arms, and when the situation became serious to Wills and he had to fight forward from a careless start, Haley was still troublesome and refused to let him fight the only way he knew.

They were fussing around near Wills' corner when Haley finally broke them apart and sent Wills to handlers.

Sharkey Wanted Division.

Sharkey's face puckered into an expression of rage and he walked about the ring waving his gloves over his head in a hand clap, with tears running down his cheeks. He said he didn't want to fight with a fellow who wanted to lick this Harry Wills that Dempsey, as champion and Tunney, after him, both refused to fight, and he was doing that very thing capably when Wills slipped him and hit him.

He was ripping his right glove up in a back hand blow to Sharkey's face in the clinches. Haley explained, as he climbed down through Sharkey's torso, "I mean with his gloves, these often hitting and holding and a dozen times about ripping that glove up in the clinches."

Sharkey began boxing as an entitled man in the Atlantic coast. He has been most of his rearing in the region of Boston, but he has had only 33 fights thus far. He is fast, in a clumsy way, and while punches out of a shift in a manner regularly reminiscent of Dempsey. He has a will and one child, and is good to his skin.

NEGRO WARNED
15 TIMES ABOUT

Throughout.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, Oct. 12.—Jack Sharkey, a young Lithuanian fighter from the region of Boston, battered Harry Wills, the pliant Negro, for a dozen rounds to-night, and won the thirteen round fight when Patsey Haley, referee disqualified Wills and sent him to his corner.

Sharkey, who was cornered and a loser, for fouling Sharkey in the clinches. Forty thousand cheering fans watched the fight.

Wills had taken a whipping all the way but Sharkey is such a light puncher that he couldn't tumble the towering black giant, although he did seem to be wearing Wills down after the sixth round was passed, and might have flattened him with a random swipe if they had been allowed to fight on.

Thus Sharkey, whose square name is Joseph Paul Cokoschay, eliminated the dark shadow that had clouded Jack Dempsey's title to the heavyweight championship and remained to becloud Gene Tunney's claim. He gave Wills an advantage of 24 pounds in the offense and at least six inches in length, but slipped in, weaving and rolling beneath the long sinewy arms of the quondam cargo handler and plunked him freely on the chin with both pieces.

IOWA ORGANIZES SURPRISE ATTACK FOR ILLINI GAME

Ingwersen Works in Secret on New Plays.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Iowa field was closed to all onlookers to the first time this fall tonight when the Hawkeye grid machine went through the final stages of preparation for the Illinois game Saturday. Coach Burton Ingwersen used his four best backs alternately to fill the vacant position at left guard, having moved Hines permanently to left tackle. Volter and Keel received the most attention.

Iowa worked on a defense to meet the Illini plays. On offense Ingwersen worked on a group of plays which are expected to surprise Illinois.

ILLINOIS.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Bob Zupke scrimmaged the Illini today to give them a taste of the surprise attack. Blair French, the little half back who gained 72 yards in two shots at Butler last Saturday, and Ray Gallivan were used in the variety back field. Frank Lanum, troubled with an infected arm, rested, and "Zag" worried about the condition of his sophomore punter.

MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—The Michigan squad went into secret practice today. Coach Yost dressing the freshmen eleven in yellow sweaters and sending them against the varsity with the famous Minnesota shift, for which he is building a defense.

The Michigan coaches look upon next Saturday's game as one of the hardest in the Wolverine schedule. Louis Gilbert, who has been on the bench with injuries for two weeks, has returned to the squad and the team now has its badly needed punter again.

Jack Levette, veteran guard, is expected to remove his temporary ineptitude by Saturday and Yost will be able to place his strongest eleven on the field against Minnesota.

PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Coach James Phelan speeded up his drill for the Wisconsin game tonight, pushing a pair of first string squads through a rather heavy scrimmage with the freshmen and also scrimmaging two squads against each other.

Team play of the Boilermakers against Wabash was ragged in spots, but indications tonight pointed for Purdue to win more of a running attack against the Cardinals than they have shown this year.

Cards vs. Bears; Grange and Bulls, Pro Headliners

Chicago will see two of the best professional football games of the season Sunday when the Cardinals and the Bears meet at Cubs park to settle the leadership in the National pro league and Red Grange and his New York Yankees invade Sox park for a tilt with the Bulls.

Less than a year ago the sport world was eagerly waiting for the famous Illini flash to begin his pro career in the Bear-Cardinal game on Thanksgiving day. The Red Head now comes back with his hand picked corte of college stars to battle Joe Sternaman, once his teammate.

Starting the American league season with a defeat at Cleveland, the Yankees, featuring Tryon, Griffin, Baker, Pease, and other grid notables, still have an opportunity to win the title because of victories over Rock Island and Boston.

Though the Bulls have not been successful—losing three contests and tying one—they are intent on redeeming themselves by trouncing the Yankees and demonstrating that Joe Sternaman is in a class by himself as a gridiron leader. Big Bill Edwards, president of the American league, will be here for Sunday's conflict.

While the Grange-Sternaman duel defensively this afternoon, the first half of the practice period being given over to dummy work, with the variety eleven breaking up the Boilermakers plays, the last part to a modified scrimmage, with the cardinal clad outfit carrying the ball.

The regulars were fairly successful in breaking up the Boilermakers plays. "Butch" Lett, who booted two place kicks in the Kansas game last Saturday, spent considerable time practicing today.

Indiana. Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Saturday will be Pat Page's first test in the Big Ten when he invades Northwestern with his "lightning four" back field and a medium sized forward wall. Both have withstood the attacks of non-conference eleven.

Page has one consolation. If Indiana fails to hold Lewis and Baker he will have a chance of performing the feat here Oct. 30 in the homecoming game with the Purple.

At the weekly meeting of the boxing commission yesterday, Midway Smith, the New York bantamweight, who fought Joey Eids of Milwaukee in the first round at White City last Monday night, was fined $100 and suspended for sixty days.

Yale Expects Dartmouth to Cause Trouble

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Yale's scrimmaging with the Dartmouth game looming large on the horizon, began for the week with unfavorable results today. The scrub defense prevented the regulars from making any continuous down the field marches or from rushing a single touchdown during the afternoon. The only score sent over the goal line of the reserves was due directly to a scrub fumble at their five yard line.

PRINCETON. Princeton, N. J., Oct. 12.—[Special.]—Princeton will send a crippled team on to the gridiron Saturday to face the Naval academy. An injury which Jake Stagle received on his leg yesterday trip last week will keep him out of the game. Ed Wilmer is recovering from a fractured leg. It is doubtful whether Capt. Johnny Davis will be able to make his debut on the football field against the Navy.

COLUMBIA. New York, Oct. 12.—[Special.]—With the Ohio State game only four days away, Head Coach Charley Crowley of Columbia stressed defensive work in the practice today, which lasted until 4 o'clock. The squad also had a light scrimmage and Kaplan replaced Rieger in part of the session.

Steincke, New Half Back, Stars in De Paul Practice. Coach Eddie Anderson of De Paul university drove his charges through rain and mud in a hard scrimmage yesterday. Steincke, a new half back, ran the ends for long gains and may start against Columbia Saturday. McGuinn, veteran end, also showed improvements.

LAKE FOREST. The Lake Forest college football team came through a grueling contest last Saturday with only minor injuries and is working overtime to eliminate the faults of a green back field before the first Little Nineties game with North Central college of Naperville at Lake Forest this week.

English Leads Teachers' Golf Meet with 76

RAIN and mud couldn't keep golfers off the course yesterday and several clubs held Columbus day tournaments, though in some cases the golf was curtailed. Two hundred and ten teachers and employees of the board of education played eighteen holes in the rain at Hickory Hills for 167 prizes and to qualify for the championship. About half of the 210 were women.

F. English topped the list of six men who qualified for the championship, which will be played at the Hickory Hills course Saturday morning, eighteen holes medal play. English, an employee of the architect's office, shot a 76. G. R. West, defending champion, a teacher in the Hyde Park High school, had 77, and so did L. Dolan, a teacher in the Pullman school. The three others in the championship flight are D. T. Davis, teacher in Harrison High school; R. A. Bowker, 1924 champion and a teacher in the Harrison High school, and C. A. Anderson, also from the Harrison school, all of whom had 78.

Marsh Sunrise, Ducks on Wing Fascinate Bob

BY BOB BECKER. [Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Upper Illinois River, Oct. 12.—Sunrise on the marsh and ducks on the wing! There's the combination that we have been waiting for, and this morning it was dashed up with an Indian summer wind that comes out of the southeast. When Lon and I came down to the water's edge at a quarter of six this morning and shoved the duck boat out for a trip over our Venetian canals, small flocks of mallards in open formation were moving in silhouette against the pink glow of the rising sun. A beautiful sight. To do any shooting on top of the flood water that has submerged our blinds and pens, I have found it necessary to stick tight to a small stand of wild sunflowers. They rise about three feet above the water, and into this vegetation I have rammed my duck boat and made a small blind.

The mallards, the principal actors in our morning show, had not come within our range, but the stage was set for them: twenty freshly painted block decoys bobbing in the breeze; five live decoys, splashing, quacking and flapping their wings in their enjoyment of the water; something like 1,000 noisy, wheezy blackbirds in the cornfield behind us. But, here come five ducks! The show begins at once.

Although the state is in the throes of renumbering its highway system and old and new direction signs are scrambled together along the main trails, Chicago tourists will have little difficulty in finding their way about. None of the famous old road names have been changed. Lincoln, Yellowstone, Dixie, Old National, Jackson, and Ocean to Ocean markings are plain and undisturbed. Only the state highway numbers are revised to meet the plan for numbered United States highways that Indiana is following in its system of reorganization.

Opening a new payment on the Lincoln highway between Merriam and Churubusco northwest of Fort Wayne has improved this great road fifty per cent in the state. One of the most popular of all coast to coast routes and one of the heaviest traffic roads of the state, the old worn pavement and constant detours on this stretch has hindered northern Indiana traffic for years. INDIANA OFFERS SCENIC FEAST TO FALL TOURISTS

Roads in Good Shape After Rains.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Oct. 12.—Indian summer trails were never finer than they are today in every nook and corner of Indiana. The wet September that sent flood waters roaring over paved roads to inundate cities and cover leagues of farm lands in western and central Illinois served to wash the Hoosier countryside clean for its riot of autumn colors and send every stream brimming high to the Vabash, but actually improved the hundreds of miles of gravel and stone roads, whose usual clinging, white dust is the bane of the open car traveler.

They've open and dustless now, a spider web invitation to October adventuring over a thousand hills and through a thousand dales in the comfortable state that has not lost its love for picturesque country lanes, wood lots, pumpkins, and acorners.

Although the state is in the throes of renumbering its highway system and old and new direction signs are scrambled together along the main trails, Chicago tourists will have little difficulty in finding their way about. None of the famous old road names have been changed. Lincoln, Yellowstone, Dixie, Old National, Jackson, and Ocean to Ocean markings are plain and undisturbed. WHEAT LOWER IN LIVERPOOL AND WINNIPEG

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Interest in grains yesterday centered in Winnipeg and Liverpool, the Chicago, New York, St. Louis, Kansas City, and Toledo markets being closed, while Minneapolis, Duluth, Winnipeg and Liverpool were open. The latter closed $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower on wheat, with October the strongest, despite the fact that English millers are not buying. The United States and Canadian government reports, issued late on Monday, had no particular influence and sentiment was mainly bearish.

Winnipeg operators went home long on Monday night, having taken wheat on offers, and sold it out yesterday because of failure of Liverpool to show a full response to Monday's advance in North American markets. Trading was not heavy, yet there was sufficient hedging pressure, coupled with liquidation by longs, to carry prices down $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ from the previous day's close. There was a little rally in buying against bids and a finish at net losses of $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ in Winnipeg, with October $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, December $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, and May $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower. Minneapolis was $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, with December $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, and Duluth $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower at $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower. Oats in Winnipeg were $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, with Minneapolis $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower at $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower, and Duluth $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower at $\frac{1}{4}$ to $\frac{1}{2}$ lower in Minneapolis.

Weather in Canada Fair.

Weather over the Canadian northwest was generally fair, with a forecast for good weather, except an occasional snow flurry. There was local spreading in Winnipeg in the way of buying November and selling the deferred futures, also a little buying credited to the seaboard, while considerable selling was credited to the pool.

Loan & Bryan's Winnipeg message said: "We believe that sales will prove profitable, as marketing in the Canadian west continues quite heavy and gives no indication of any serious stoppage in threshing operations, so long as the weather continues favorable."

We asked St. Louis Bond Houses to divulge their sales totals

A Significant Volume For The Second Largest Bond Market in The Middle West

IN order to show you, in this advertisement, something of the scope of the St. Louis bond market, we sent questionnaires to all of the 116 Bond Houses in St. Louis. . . . We asked them to tell us just what their 1925 sales volume had been.

(So far as we know, this is the first time that any such information has been gathered for the bond market.)

These 26 houses revealed a total sales volume of $239,288,595 for 1925, or a gain of 126% over 1924.

Of course, the total for all the St. Louis Bond Houses would be much greater. . . . And you can readily see what sales possibilities there are in this market, which is now the second largest bond market in the middle West, and which is growing rapidly and steadily.

A study of the table above reveals some of these possibilities.

For example:

The rapidly developing market for Real Estate Bonds.

- ... And for Municipals.
- ... And Railroad Bonds.
- ... And for Industrials.
- ... And Public Utility Bonds.

With a Famous Newspaper to Help You Sell This Market

Bond Houses serving this market have available the tremendous influence of The Globe-Democrat as an advertising medium for their offerings.

Here is the only morning newspaper in St. Louis. No other newspaper within 150 miles of St. Louis even attempts to offer the service which The Globe-Democrat Financial and Market Pages render.

The Globe-Democrat reaches the executives of banks throughout St. Louis and in 80.1% of the banks in the 49th State and in 68.4% of the banks in the Eighth Federal Reserve District.

How natural, then, that this great newspaper, the accepted monitor in financial matters, should carry more financial advertising than all the other St. Louis newspapers combined.

Ask the Globe-Democrat Representative nearest you for information regarding this market. Have him explain the cooperation which our Research Division and our Service and Promotion Department can give you in determining your sales possibilities here.

Wastrel Idea of College Men Refuted Here

U. of C. and N. U.

U. of C. and N. U.

That college students as a class are Thiers and spendthrifts is disputed in figures gathered yesterday at the University of Chicago and Northwestern university.

D. T. Howard, director of personnel at Northwestern, estimated that 20 per cent of the male students earn all their expenses while at the institution and that 30 per cent more earn a portion of their living expenses.

Women students do not make such a good showing. Of the college Y. W. C. A. it was disclosed that 149 co-eds out of a total of 1,800 had obtained positions this year. Twenty-two of these earned their board and lodging expenses by working as waitresses during her spare time as chauffeur for an elderly man.

Dean Ralph Hellman of the Northwestern university school of commerce, conducting classes at night downtown, stated that all his 5,000 students were wage earners with an average income of $3,000 annually.

The University of Chicago is now conducting an employment survey and definite figures are not available. It was estimated, however, that 70 per cent of the men students earn all or a part of their expenses while at college.

The positions held by the Chicago men run the gamut of occupations. One group which is glad to earn a per diem digging graves in south side cemeteries is balanced by another employed as bouncers in dance halls. Two are professional golfers. Several are teamsters. Some tell bedtime stories over the radio and others are guards on elevated trains. Telegraph operators, translators, furnace men

Since the opening of its annual home service appeal on Oct. 4, the Salvation Army has received contributions amounting to $104,664. SYNOPSIS.

Maxwell, the wealthiest woman in Grandon, brings upon herself the censure of the town by her association with the Black Buttermilk, a club made up of social outcasts. Her attorney, Oswald Hatch, remonstrates with her and advises her to take on Dorinda the niece that she will not give up the freedom that was denied her by her father's lifetime.

Hatch sends David Goddard, his clerk, out to Dorinda's house with some papers that require her signature and the heiress is impressed by the young student.

Dorinda is worried by the gossip about herself and calls on Norma Davis, an old friend, for the hope of keeping their friendship alive. Norma tells Dorinda that her father, Oswald Davis, died owing to their friendship. She asks Dorinda why she doesn't marry and Dorinda gives her the same answer she gave to her attorney.

Dorinda telephones to Goddard and asks him to call at her house that night so she could marry him, the arrangement to be strictly a matter of business. He refuses to do so but later he tells her he'll do it. He starts courting her according to a plan that he first put upon.

INSTALLMENT XXII.
THE PROPOSAL.

At the fitting moment David modestly produced the card case, and with the exultant shouts of appreciation the atmosphere of good feeling deepened. Chad explained to Dorinda what a card case was, and Kitty and he listened on a rehearsal of the owner's first use of it. In which Bryant was the assisting butler and Miss Perkins the staggered hostess. Even David graciously conceded that when the Butterflies were in this mood they were Herinda's gifts for their guests were beside their service plates—silver cigarette cases, gold lined, for Kitty, Chad and Jim, a stamped leather bill case for David. He grinned irrepressibly. His bill case was like Dorinda's card case. Neither of them had much present use for the other's offering.

"It was mighty thoughtless of you to have these cigaret cases marked," Chad grumbled, ostentatiously opening his gift to inspect the sterling mark. "Time will be pawned most of the time, and I'd get much more if it wasn't marked."

"Goon," she pleaded coquettishly, "if wot I 'ear is true you'll 'ave a 'ole lot of my Christmas dinners."

"One thing's sure," he cheerfully added. "You'll always know the state of my finances now. When I am in funds I will be carrying this case, and when I'm not old Levy will be carrying it."

"We have always known the state of your finances, and it has always been rotten," Bryant mentioned.

"It's going to be rotten hereafter," Chad assured the company. "Aunt is tightening up. She says a lot of her dividends have stopped coming, even made me resign from the club, and now the duss are only twenty a year. I may be driven to marry Dorry yet. In fact, only yesterday Aunt Julia asked me why I didn't do it, and I promised I'd think it over. A fellow gets so desperate at times he's ready for almost any mad act. What I want to drink but claret and water! Great jumping Jehoshaphat!"

"You're a little out of your head," said the barman, as the conversation

"It will be a great thing for the club to have you resign, Chad," he commented. "It will improve it amazingly. I may even go in myself. I never managed to hit one club," he added reminiscently.

"What do you mean?" he asked, pointing it the year I was a newspaper man and tried to work on Christmas day."

"What did all the initials mean?" Dorothea wanted to know.

"To-Hell-with-the-Merry-Yule-Tide-Club. Every one on the star belonged to it," Bryant added spitefully. "By the way, Dorry, why did you give up?"

"I was a woman who had expected something more original from you. To be a bill case for Goddard, and expect him to have anything left to put into when he is spending his entire salary on you, showed a superb flight of fancy. So did his card case for you. But we can fill our cigarette cases 'right every day. You ought to have been Chad, a brace of crystal caskets for the men, his card case for the women, a photograph and some jazz records would have been nice for Kitty's studio—you know how she loves canned music and you might have sent me—"

[illegible]

Mr. Bryant devoted himself to the mothers and flattered them till their heads swam, while later in the evening Chad started the phonograph and he trotted with a dozen plump women who remained magnificently indifferent to the fact that their infants were ostentatiously falling asleep and, like the rest of the poem, bring where they fall.

At 10 o'clock David found Dorinda in a corner, settling a drowsy baby on a side bracket, and from this bracket drooped a long, shaggy head, and a pair of very sticky lollipop. Above her head was a cluster of shaded electric lights, and she began to chuckle and to smile at the most two dozen mothers who were there. For the moment, who saw Dorinda? He bowed before her.

"And the two were alone."

"Miss Maxwell," he asked formally, "will you do me the honor to marry me?"

He caught her look of amazement, followed by one of understanding. She forgot that tonight was the night set for the proposal, but she was extremely quick on the up and down.

"Well, Mr. Goodrich," she assured him; and she added heartily, "and I will."

He'd earned none of you to ask me, after all I've put you through in the last month!"

They were now standing facing each other, and he took her hand. Two or three tears were slightly sticky from contact with the lollipop, but neither of them was the important finger. He had the ring ready, and he slipped it onto her finger where it belonged.

"I had to guess at the size," he confessed, "but it seems all right, doesn't it? Do you like it?"

She looked at the ring and her eyes softened.

"Very much, David. Thank you." It was the first time she had used his Christian name in speaking to him.

He bent and kissed the hand he held. A shrieking group of children, who had been waiting outside, came over.

David wandered away, wondering how he felt about it. Till now he had been sure that his marriage would go through. For all he knew, the girls might have changed her mind and might naturally have experienced some doubts in telling him so. After their first talk the subject had never been mentioned again.

Know Yourself and Be Confident—That's Half the Battle

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"How can I overcome my bashfulness and develop a good 'line'?" At parties I always feel ill at ease and am left behind.—Bill.

The girls tell me they are getting frightened fed up on the "line" the average boy hands out. The "line" they get at dances, parties, particularly, licks them by its lack of originality. I have a notion that if a boy came along who obviously had made no effort to develop one at all he'd make quite a hit.

So that, for the moment, I'd forget about it, Bill.

But bashfulness, as it involves awkwardness and lack of confidence, is something to overcome. Neither with girls nor in business is it going to help a man any if he lacks or appears to lack faith in himself. Unfortunately, the world has no time to dig beneath the unimpressive exterior. You have to do your own polishing. Or, sell yourself, in other words.

Before you begin the job you have to know what it is in you that is responsible for your inferiority complex. What makes you feel ill at ease? What have the other boys got that you lack in putting yourself over with the girls?

Have it out with yourself one of these fine days. Take a concrete example of one of the boys of your crowd that the girls favor and compare yourself with him. People are ill at ease because they believe they lack something in their makeup that others have. Try to lay your finger on the missing link. You may find that the only difference between you and the other fellow is that he believes in himself, and so believing he isn't going to let anybody underestimate his worth by saying his clothes, his manners, his conversation open to criticism.

These last named items are not things of superficial value. It is awfully important to a young girl that the boy she is seen with is presentable, that his manners are above reproach, and that he can speak correctly. In big business affairs, it might be added that these qualifications are of utmost importance.

So, Bill, you'll have to overhaul yourself and if you are lacking in anything, brush up. There's nothing like feeling right with yourself to set you right with the other fellow.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Hashing It Over.

"Dear Miss Blake: Do you think it is right for a fellow to talk about the good times he had with the girl he loved after they break off?"

"HEARTBROKEN."

So long as his comments are in her favor she should not criticize him. Where he is to speak, slightly, let criticism would be justifiable.

Careers Attract

Two More Young Women in Society

BY NANCY R.—
There are two more "careers" in the social world of the ever lengthening season. One is the career of the fashionable business group, the other of the fashionable social group. The former has taken up the post of fashion adviser in one of our large department stores, and her daytime wardrobe will now be filled with offering suggestions and planning wardrobes for those of the fair sex whose ideas on the subject are somewhat vague and who realize only too well how seldom we see ourselves as others see us (thank you, Bobby Burns!).

As for Mari Smith, I understand that she is going in for bookbinding, not as a means of supplying herself with extra pin money but because she considers it an interesting occupation and refuses to allow herself an overabundance of leisure hours. She is planning to go to New York next month to take an intensive course in the art, and although she has had some experience along that line, the expanding field of leather tooling is as yet unexplored by this enterprising young miss.

A friend of hers told her, upon hearing of the project, that when she returned to Chicago she'd have to take a book or two from each lunchroom and dinner she attended, and give to her many friends just how expert she'd become.

Dry's News in Society
The Evanston Smith College club is to give its annual benefit ball for its scholarship fund at the Evanston Country club this evening. Mrs. Edward S. Clark is chairman of arrangements.
The British consul general and Mrs. H. A. Richards of the Seneca hotel will give a small dinner on Tuesday evening at the Casino for Mrs. Dorothy Chapman of London, who will be their guest for a brief time. Mrs. Clark E. More of 227 East Delaware street is giving a luncheon on Monday at the Arts club for Mrs. Chapman and for Mrs. Edwin Carrere of New Orleans.
Miss Marjorie Little, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alden H. Little, who came to Chicago from St. Louis recently, was one of a group of young women invited to serve at a tea given last Saturday in St. Louis by Mrs. J. Clark Street, at which the engagement of Mrs. Street's daughter, Miss Mary and Mr. Street, to Lindell Gordon, was announced. The engagement was one of the most interesting and important of the fall's announcements in St. Louis, as Miss Street was the Valedictorian of the last year's class, and Mr. Gordon is a Princeton man of prominent connections.
From Coronado Beach, Cal., comes news of interest concerning former Chicagoans. Mrs. F. Kennett Dupey has issued invitations for the marriage on Saturday of her daughter, Evelyn Walter, to George Louis Casters, a lieutenant in the United States Navy. The service is to be read at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at Christ church. Miss Dupey is the granddaughter of the late John Dupey, who had one of the show places at Oconomowoc, Wis., when that resort was in its prime. Mrs. John Dupey resides in Coronado.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 12.—(Special.)—Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Astor have rented the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Woodward Haven at 15 East 79th street for the winter.
Mr. and Mrs. Graham Ryle have returned from Bonnington-Thames, England, and are at the Vanderbilt hotel a few days before going to their home in Rye.
Mrs. H. Edward Manville and Miss Beulah Manville have returned from a trip to the Pacific coast and New Orleans. They will sail Saturday on their way to Paris.
Mrs. John Parkin Gifford of 880 South avenue will give a small tea at her apartment tomorrow afternoon for Mr. and Mrs. George Pinckard of London, who are leaving for Los Angeles on Sunday evening.
Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt will, who are at their country home at Sands Point, L. I., will open their apartment at 802 Madison avenue Oct. 22.

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

By IRENE CASTLE

Copyright 1926 by F. O. Dunst Features

Avoid Risking Your Complexion
To an unproved soap
Use only a true complexion soap, and then, this way

MODERN beauty culture starts now at the wash basin. Leading skin specialists urge the use of a certain type of soap to cleanse the pores and free the skin of blemish-causing matter. Youth is thus preserved, the skin texture kept soft, supple and naturally lovely.

But note particularly: By a "certain type of soap," a true complexion soap now is meant. Some soaps are excellent for one purpose or another, yet perilous to the skin.
For that reason, Palmolive is so widely urged. It is a unique soap, made by experts in beauty solely for one purpose; to protect the complexion. A soap made to be used freely and lavishly on the skin. 60 years of soap study stand behind it. Before Palmolive came, women were told, "use no soap on your face." Soap then were judged too harsh. Remember that point when tempted to "try" an ordinary soap. A good complexion is too precious for carelessness. Launder, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake, take care. Use Palmolive according to the following rule—Nature's formula to "Keep that Schoolgirl Complexion."

The daily rule that thousands follow: Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly.

Girls Love New Wonderful Powder

You will not have a shiny nose. A very fine, pure, new French Process Powder is all the rage. Keeps shine away—perspiration hardly affects it. Lines or pores won't show. Looks like natural skin and gives a beautiful complexion. Get a box today. It is called MELLO-GLO. At all toilet goods counters—Mello-Glo Co., Boston, Mass.

first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.
Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening: Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, and enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Just do this and your skin will be less a problem as the years advance. Costs but 10 cents.
Palmolive costs but 10c the cake because of great volume and manufacturing efficiency... so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for the face. Obtain a cake today. See what a difference one week's use will make in your complexion. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois (Advertisement)

Cook a hot breakfast now in 3 to 5 minutes

QUICK QUAKER cooks in less time than it takes you to prepare plain toast.
That means a hot, nourishing breakfast in a hurry.
It means an excellently balanced ration: combining protein, carbohydrates and vitamins—plus the "bulk" to make laxatives less often needed—cooked and served without muss or bother.
Why go on with less nourishing foods? Quaker Oats and milk is the dietetic way of today. Start every day that way.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—You can come to Paris, spend a lot of money and return the worse dressed woman in the world. One of the amazing things about this beautiful city which has dominated fashion since the days of Gaul, and which can send a woman back to her native country the epitome of Parisian chic, is that she commits herself to the skillful hands of one of the big artists, is the crime you commit unto yourself dressing from shop windows.

I have seen hats, for one item, that are perfect atrocities, and one of the worst exhibits was carried off triumphantly by an American with a broad "New Jersey" accent as the last word in Parisian hatting. It was a huge affair with a velvet bow on the side that she could almost have made a 1926 frock out of. One of your home grown French women would have committed suicide rather than be seen beneath it. And, of course, the water was short and broad. But then, if it made her happy, I suppose my tears might better be saved for my own transactions.

I met a Chicago friend on the Rue de Rivoli the other day who said: "This street makes you do the craziest things. I've bought the worst lot of trash that I'll never wear—beads and buckles, monograms for hats and bags. I could have flown to South Africa and seen something for what I've spent."

A woman stopped to greet a friend near us. It was five in the afternoon. She had on an expensive coat and black satin shoes, the heels of which were lightly sprinkled with brilliants. I suppose she took some booter's word for it that she was "heeled" in elegant fashion.

If you are with a French woman and something particularly garish, spangles or something in vivid colors, forces you to ask why there isn't an ordinance to prevent such a crime upon good taste, she tactfully tells you, if you are a North American, that they have to cater to South American trade, and I suspect if she were walking with a South American the trade situation would be reversed.

My warning would be not to believe everything a Paris shop window tells you, and that if you don't use control you can go back home looking like a crazy patchwork quilt with dress, hat, bag, beads, scarf, and gossamer bought willy nilly and without regard to the fitness of one item to the other in the perfect ensemble.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

ETHEL G.: IF YOUR HAIR IS UNmanageable after washing it, a couple of brisk brushings will supply the necessary oil to make it remain in place. If it is excessively dry, rub olive oil or sweet almond oil into the scalp before brushing. It would be well for you to have my booklet, "Care of the Hair." It tells how to shampoo the hair properly and the treatment for dry hair.

SUR: RAPID EATING IS OFTEN the cause of red blotchy cheeks on the face. When we overtax the digestion it is apt to result in skin disturbances. What food is not properly chewed out is liable to wash it down with water, hence more food is taken than is necessary. Too overeat and are liable to skin disturbances. Give yourself plenty of time for your meals and learn to eat slowly.

Needs Shoulder Braces.

"I wonder if any of your readers has a shoulder brace for a boy, aged 10. He is round shouldered and quite delicate. A nurse at the sanitarium told me he would develop tuberculosis if this was not attended to now."

"Mrs. A. M."

Have you the braces which are going to make this boy a fine, straight young man?

Her only attendant, Mrs. John H. Mosley, wore a bouffant frock of flowered tulle, a black velvet hat, and carried a bouquet of yellow roses. The Les Pattison residence, where the post-nuptial reception took place was decorated with bowls of pink roses.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.
The Late Cyming.

Many a garden has its patty pan squashes or cymings, and some of them come to market where they are not over popular because if not cooked in some sophisticated fashion they are rather tasteless. But suppose you stuff them, making a rather ornamental vegetable dinner piece of them. You can vary the stuffing or filling as you choose, but here is one way: Steam the squash—in its skin, of course—until it is tender, then cut out the big and thick cap from the center as you can without coming too near the inner bend of the scallops. You can, in getting this out or afterwards, go through almost to the skin on the lower side. Remove the hard stem end and the skin from this cut out piece, and then add that part of the squash to the filling, which is cooking in the frying pan.

To make the filling, gently sweat a thinly sliced onion in a tablespoon of butter, and perhaps have several tablespoons of chopped green or red pepper with it. To sweat onion is to cook it in butter in a covered pan until it is tender, and not the slightest bit brown. Browning onion, except in meat juice, dries it up. Onion will cook soft in this fashion in five minutes, when cut thin. Add one or two sliced tomatoes to the mixture, and a half cup of soft bread crumbs to take up some of the liquid of the vegetables, particularly of the squash. You will not notice it when eating the filling. One teaspoon of salt will probably be enough, and you may add the mildest possible shake of pepper or so little that no one will guess it is there. In addition to these ingredients a good addition is half a cucumber chopped fine and put into the mixture with the tomato, or even before, so that it will be well cooked. It is of the same food order as the squash, but has more flavor. Finally fill the mixture into the squash. It will have to be packed and patted and heaped. Four a little melted butter over it and put it into a hot oven for ten minutes, or finish under the broiler. Cut and serve as though it were a pie.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid liver. Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action. If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant relief from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime. Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Here's a Safe and

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondent.]—No train wrecks ahead for this passenger. No, for the brakes are applied and all the new safety devices are installed. She who takes this train need never fear. In fact, that it is going to be wrecked by awkward steps in the ballroom. Attached to a bracelet on the right arm, it cannot possibly be detached.

For the rest, here is one of those omnipresent evening gowns of chiffon of which I wrote on Sunday. And here, also, is the irregular hemline which no "regular" dance frock can fashionably abjure. This irregularity comes from two pointed side draperies attached to the sides by rows of shirring. In the front, however, it is to be remarked that the shirring merges into one of those popular insect bolts. This one is punctuated in front with a rhinestone ornament—the single touch of ornamentation employed.

The U neck line is employed both front and back, and this is banded in a narrow strip of self material. The gown comes in that shade of red which is nearly that of the cock's comb, but there is, of course, nothing arbitrary about this, for chiffon draws no color line.

Put it on in the morning, powder over it—and for hours your nose will keep just that dull, velvety look you want it to have. One guy says: "I have tried nearly every cream on the market, but Vaseline is the first one that really does get rid of the shine. The longer I use it the less I have to powder. My skin seems to get smoother every day, and blackheads have disappeared."

Try it for yourself. Go to any drug or grocery store and get a 50-cent tin. Use it for one week as directed. Then, if you are not entirely satisfied, return the tin and get your money back.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 12.—[Special Correspondent.]—Mrs. Coolidge left Washington today by motor for Merceburg, Pa., where tomorrow she will be present at the dedication of the new $600,000 chapel just completed at the school for the deaf. Mrs. Coolidge, who is the younger one, Calvin Jr., and the entrance into the college of the other, John Coolidge.

Washington society was shocked by the news of the sudden death this morning of Lieut. Col. John Pitcher, U. S. A., at his home, Hollywood, Cal. Col. Pitcher was married only two months ago to Mrs. Anna Thomas Currier, formerly of Chicago and a native of Baltimore, and they returned through New England only a short time ago. Mrs. Pitcher's first husband was Dean Currier of Chicago and Evanston.

Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, wife of the former senator from Illinois, arrived today at the White House after the absence of many months in Europe. She had a small company of old friends at luncheon today at the White House, and will remain here probably the remainder of the week.

Immediately my young daughter piped up, "Mother, tell everybody that!" You cannot but imagine my embarrassment, and I haven't thought over it yet.
